The first system of the musical score consists of a vocal line on a single staff and a piano accompaniment on two staves. The vocal line begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one sharp (F#). The melody is composed of eighth and quarter notes, with a long horizontal line above it indicating a sustained note. The piano accompaniment features a treble and bass clef, with chords and single notes in both hands.

The second system continues the musical score. The vocal line maintains the same melodic pattern. The piano accompaniment includes a dynamic marking of f (forte) at the beginning, indicating a strong, loud sound.

The third system of the musical score shows the vocal line and piano accompaniment. The piano accompaniment includes a dynamic marking of mf (mezzo-forte) at the beginning, indicating a moderate, medium sound.

The fourth system of the musical score is partially obscured by a large, stylized illustration of a lighthouse. The lighthouse is depicted with a multi-tiered structure, a spiral staircase, and a bright light emanating from the top. The illustration is rendered in a dark, textured style, contrasting with the musical notation. The vocal line and piano accompaniment are visible behind the lighthouse, with the piano accompaniment including a dynamic marking of mf.

THE STUDENT BODY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS

BETTY GARY, EDITOR - JACQUE DOBBS, BUSINESS MGR.

The 1946 RAZORBACK is dedicated to those sons and daughters of the University of Arkansas who served in the Armed Forces. Though we know that the satisfaction of noble accomplishment which is yours is a far greater reward than any acclaim which we or anyone can offer, we salute you and your comrades in arms for the courage and sacrifice that you exhibited throughout the long and bitter struggle that is now at an end. You have brought us peace, and you have set our feet upon the road to a better world. But even now, while the drums of war are scarcely stilled, we are becoming more and more aware that that road is a long and difficult one. It is our hope that that same spirit of yours to which we here pay tribute will be ours too—that together we may march down that road with the Four Freedoms for which you fought as guide-posts to the better world which we and all men of goodwill are seeking.

DEDICATION

The University of Arkansas is proud that four of its graduates were awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor during the war. Maurice "Footsie" Britt of Lonoke, who is a graduate from the department of journalism of 1941, was the first to receive this award. Nathan G. Gordon of Morrilton received a bachelor of laws degree from the law school in 1939. Edgar Harold "Buck" Lloyd, who was killed in action in Germany, November 16, 1944, was awarded the medal posthumously. "Buck" received his degree from the College of Agriculture in 1943. Semour W. Terry of Little Rock, who received his degree from the College of Business Administration in 1941, was awarded the medal posthumously.

Foreword

The purpose of the 1946 RAZORBACK is to record the life on the campus of the University during the school year 1945-46. We have attempted to put into the book the things that Arkansas students did during this school year.

It is the hope of the staff that this book will serve as a permanent record of the year 1945-46 at the University of Arkansas; that it will, in later years, during a few minutes of relaxation, bring you back to your 'ole college days. If this purpose can be accomplished, the staff will feel that their efforts have not been wasted in making this book.

ARTHUR M. HARDING
President

THE PRESIDENT

Student, professor, administrator, and President of the University of Arkansas—that is the record of Arthur M. Harding. He is a native-born Arkansan, and his connection with the University has extended over forty-seven years.

Only a year after his graduation from the University of Arkansas, Dr. Harding joined the faculty as an instructor of mathematics in 1905. During World War I, Dr. Harding served as Registrar of the University. His most outstanding achievement prior to becoming president was his work in the Extension Department. Becoming head of the department in 1919, he enlarged its scope until it had students doing work in every state, Alaska, Mexico, and Puerto Rico.

Dr. Harding's presidency has probably been more difficult than any previous one, for he has had to put the University on a war-time basis and keep it running smoothly. Another factor making it difficult is the post-war increase in enrollment that occurred this year. The University went back to its peace-time basis of two semesters this year. For the two years previous it was on a twelve months basis, four quarters to the year.

Popular astronomy is the hobby of the president. Before he became president and the demands of his office occupied all his time, he was in demand all over the nation as a lecturer on the subject. In the course of delivering two thousand lectures, he has traveled in the forty-eight states and in several provinces of Canada. President Harding received his doctor's degree from the University of Chicago.

In a letter dated February 13, 1946, to Herbert L. Thomas, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Harding announced his resignation to become effective at the end of June, 1946. In the letter Dr. Harding said, "The University of Arkansas has just completed several years of war work. The strain and burden occasioned by shortages, personnel loss, and war-caused difficulties have imposed a terrific burden on the administrative head of the University. The University has before it an opportunity for educational service never before existent in its history. If this opportunity is accepted and met, there is in the future a great deal of work incident to the expansion of physical facilities and personnel that must, because of its nature, fall largely upon the administrative head of the University. . . . Because of my physician's advice I must slow down. It would be to my own best interest and also to the University's that I should retire as president."

GOVERNOR BEN LANEY

The Laney family came to Arkansas in 1847 and settled in the southern part of the state. On the same farm that his grandfather settled, our present governor was born in 1896.

Governor Laney was educated at Hendrix College until his country called him during the first World War. After returning from the war he attended State Teachers College at Conway, where he received his A.B. degree. Since then he has served as a member of the Board of Trustees there.

Governor Laney has always been very civic minded, holding many offices in civic organizations in Camden. He was practically unknown in Arkansas' politics until his election as governor in 1944. He has stated that every native of Arkansas has every right to be proud that he is an Arkansan.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees actually decides the policies of the University of Arkansas. Each man is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Arkansas Senate for a term of ten years, expiration dates being arranged so that one member's term expires each year.

Chairman of the Board is Herbert L. Thomas, life insurance executive, who resides in Fayetteville. His daughter, Jane, is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences. Mr. Thomas is serving his second term as a member of the Board.

John Clinton Black of Rogers, who received a BEE degree in 1921, is manager of the Southwestern Gas and Electric Company.

Oldest member of the Board is Fred I. Brown of Little Rock. He is a founder of the Arkansas Foundry Company and a graduate of the College of Engineering. His appointment expires in 1951.

P. E. Murphy, banker of Junction City, has two sons who are University graduates—Leo, BA '26, and Jack, BSBA '31.

Dr. Euclid Smith, Hot Springs, has been appointed to serve until 1952. There are two attorneys serving on the Board. They are Judge Henry S. Yocum of El Dorado, who will serve until 1949, and Jay W. Dickey of Pine Bluff, who will serve until 1948.

A new member of the Board this year is W. T. Jones, replacing Louis McDaniel of Forrest City. Mr. Jones is a planter from Madison.

Raymond Orr, president of the Athletic Mining and Smelting Company, of Fort Smith was appointed last year.

Mr. T. C. Carlson, who returned to the University this year after serving as a major in the army, was made one of the Vice-Presidents of the University and serves also as secretary of the Board.

Left to right: Judge H. S. Yocum, Jay Dickey, W. W. Sharp, Raymond Orr, T. C. Carlson, Herbert Thomas, W. T. Jones, P. E. Murphy, John Clinton Black, Fred I. Brown, Arthur M. Harding.

ARTS AND SCIENCES As Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and as Vice-President of the University, Dr. H. M. Hosford has had much work with the readjustment of the University to its normal, pre-war enrollment.

When Dean Hosford came to the University of Arkansas from S. M. U., he came as head of the Mathematics Department. In 1938 he was made Dean of the College. He became Vice-President of the University in 1943, succeeding Dean Julian S. Waterman. The College of Arts and Sciences has carried the largest enrollment on the campus since the founding of the University in 1871. Even after losing men to the armed forces, it still boasted more students than any other college. Now, with this year's second semester, the enrollment for the College is one of the largest in its history.

Dean Hosford has been active in providing for the Division of Fine Arts within the College, a division which is new this year. The College offers courses planned for a liberal education and also courses directed toward professional activities, such as medicine and law. Old Main houses many of the departments in the College such as Languages, Physics, Speech, Journalism, Art, English, and History. Located in outlying buildings are departments of Philosophy, Psychology, Chemistry, Zoology, Botany, Mathematics, and Music. Four degrees are offered by the College of Arts and Sciences—Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in Music, and Bachelor of Science in Social Welfare.

VICE-PRESIDENTS

SECRETARY-TREASURER A native of Minnesota, Mr. T. C. Carlson was in the Graduate School at the University when he was offered the position of Registrar here, being the first that this university had had. Following his service in the war, he was sent to Oxford University in England for the Easter term. In 1921 Mr. Carlson returned to the University as Executive Secretary to the President. In turn he became Business Manager, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Board. Serving as a major in World War II, he was in civil affairs and military government. He was back on his job at the University in 1945. In November of 1945 he was made Vice-President for Finance.

As his title would indicate, Mr. Carlson keeps record for the Board of Trustees and he is responsible for the funds of the University. He is in charge of the administration of the total budget which is close to $3,000,000. The supervision not only of the finances of the teaching department but of research activities as well is included. The work of the Secretary-Treasurer involves not only the custody of funds but also the formation and administration of budgets, the supervision of purchasing, accounting for expenditures, and the rendering of necessary reports with the modern complications of the withholding tax, group insurance, and hospitalization.

DEANS OF THE COLLEGES

GRADUATE Coming to the University of Arkansas as a professor in English in 1918, Dr. John Clark Jordan now heads the youngest school on the campus, the Graduate School. The school was set up in 1927 under the direction of the late President Futrall and Dean Jordan, who was then Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. At first, the graduate students were handled by a committee. Now they have their own College, a dean, and a council to direct the curricula. In addition to his position as Dean, Dr. Jordan is the national president of Blue Key, men's honorary fraternity, and also Head of the English Department. He also manages to teach full time.

With the G. I. Bill of Rights many men will be returning for graduate work. Starting with 34 as the original enrollment, the school had over 300 in the summer of 1940.

Thirty weeks residence, an oral examination and in many cases a thesis are the requirements for a degree. The Graduate School now offers two degrees—Master of Arts or of Science and professional degrees in the various engineering fields.

One of Dean Jordan's main interests is the Music Room in the Student Union where he plays records every noon. The Musical Coffee Hour on Wednesdays provides a time for students to listen to music while drinking coffee.

ENGINEERING Finishing his tenth year as Dean of the College of Engineering, Dr. George Patrick Stocker has made the College an outstanding one on the campus. He came to Arkansas after being Head of the Department of Civil Engineering at Swarthmore College. He is a member of the Newcomen Society of London, a group composed of prominent engineers all over the world.

Established on the campus in 1871, engineering has proved an outstanding course. The Engineering College is composed of four departments—chemical, civil, mechanical, and electrical, with the chemical department being the baby. In 1912 these four courses were combined into the one college.

On one day of the year the highlight comes for the engineers when classes are forgotten and the order of the day becomes "Erin Go Braugh". St. Pat and St. Patricia are chosen to reign over the holiday affair. Vieing with each other for weeks to see who can grow the longest beard, the boys celebrate the eve of St. Pat's Day with a bonfire, announce the identity of the king and queen, and judge the beard contest. The winner of the contest receives a kiss from St. Patricia.

AGRICULTURE Taking a leading position in developing and maintaining courses of interest and usefulness to the returning veterans, Dean W. R. Horlacher, as head of the College of Agriculture, has raised the enrollment of the College during the second semester. In addition to his being the head of the College, Dean Horlacher is Director of the Agricultural Experimental Stations and of the Agricultural Extension Service. The Extension Service carries results of Agricultural experiments to farmers throughout the state and thus works toward the improvement of farming in Arkansas.

The division which has developed into the present-day college started in 1872 with the University itself. The College of Agriculture made its appearance as it now exists in 1905.

As one of the newest buildings on the campus, the Home Economics Building is also very well-equipped. Clothing labs, living room and dining room, nursery school, and the Bacteriology lab are located in the building.

For training, the boys of the College get to try out methods of farming on the University Experimental Farm, about two miles north of the campus. This excellent Experiment Station was formally organized in 1888 and developed out of one small farm purchased along with land for the University. They raise cattle, pigs, oats, wheat, and barley. At the University dairy, the dairy products are marketed, letting the Agri students follow their products from the farm to the market.

Dean Horlacher came to the campus in 1936 and three years later he was made Dean of the College of Agriculture.

DEANS . . .

LAW In 1944, Dr. Robert A. Leflar returned to Arkansas from Washington, D. C., to become the second Dean of the Law School. Dean Leflar graduated from the University of Arkansas and then went to Harvard University.

Established in 1924 with headquarters in the basement of Old Main, the Law School moved into the former Chemistry Building in 1936. The end of the war brought over a 100% increase for the second semester enrollment over the first part of the year. The Law Library has nearly 20,000 volumes at the present. Included in these volumes is an excellent collection of law reports, statutes, digests, encyclopedias, text books, and law reviews. The Arkansas Law Bulletin containing legal articles, comments on recent Arkansas cases, and discussions of legislation is put out by the Law School. The Law School is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, an organization of the leading law schools in America.

Aside from being head of the School, Dean Leflar teaches a full load. He is also Chairman of the Committee on Athletics and Chairman of the Committee on Tenure.

The first Lawyers' Day celebration since 1941 was observed March 16, with Joan Dorris as queen. Activities began with a moot court case.

OF THE COLLEGES

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION In March, 1944, Dr. Paul W. Milam was made Dean of the College of Business Administration, having been acting Dean since September. He came to the University in 1930 as an instructor, having received his Ph.D. from New York University. With the post-war enrollment Dean Milam and his staff will have their hands full.

Under Dean Fichtner and the late President Futrall, the College was organized in 1926 as a two-year division. The College became so popular among the students that in 1937 it was reorganized as a four-year college. The College now holds membership in the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business which is composed of the outstanding schools in North America.

The commerce students study accounting, economics, finance, general business, shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping in the College's library.

Administrative offices of the College are located in the Commerce Building shared with the ROTC officers. Many of the classes in the College are held in the new Classroom Building.

Publicity for the annual Commerce Day is gained by the well-known dollar signs painted all over the campus. On this day the students publish a special issue of the official publication of the College, the Guild Ticker.

EDUCATION Dr. Henry Kronenberg, who came here in September, 1934, as Assistant Professor of Education, has been Dean of the College of Education since July, 1945. He has edited a book and is co-author of a book with Dr. Bent, Principles of Secondary Education. In addition, Dr. Kronenberg is on the advisory board of Social Education, the official publication of the National Council for the Social Studies.

Starting with the imposing title, Department of Pedagogy, in 1898, it became the Department of Education in 1918 and then in 1921 its name was changed to the College of Education. The College has grown steadily, preparing students for professional service in teaching by the use of the Training School and assisting these students to secure positions through its Teachers' Placement Bureau.

The main headquarters for the College are in Peabody Hall; in the old infirmary are the offices for Agricultural Education. Also to be found in Peabody is the third department of the College—the University Training School, headed by Mr. Charles H. Cross.

As Dean of Women, Miss Jeanette Scudder is responsible for the general welfare of all the women students, for the general counseling of students, and for the administration of women's affairs. Much of her time is spent in individual interviews. Housing, advice to the Associated Women Students, and advice to the various women's organizations are included in her position as Dean of Women. From her office some vocational information is given out. She interprets the needs and interests of the women students to the faculty.

Each year Miss Scudder has tried to bring some outstanding women in different fields to the University to speak. Part of the education of women students includes hearing and meeting women who have achieved recognition in their fields. It constitutes an important part of campus life.

Along with other offices on the campus, Miss Scudder's office is sponsoring the Institute on Marriage and Family Living. Marriage counseling has become a part of her job. For several years she has also had an important part in the Vocational Information Conferences.

A graduate of Purdue University, where she majored in English and psychology, Miss Scudder took her master's degree in Personnel Administration at Teachers College, Columbia University. She was a Grace H. Dodge Fellow there. She served as Director of Residence Halls and adviser to Panhellenic and student government at the University of Kentucky before coming to this campus six years ago. Miss Scudder has been on the Executive Board of the National Association of Deans of Women for two years.

DEANS of MEN AND WOMEN

In the summer of 1945 Mr. William S. Gregson became the acting Dean of Men, since Mr. Humphreys decided to spend all his energy in the chemistry department. Mr. Gregson comes from New England.

When the first World War came, Mr. Gregson was supposed to be sent to Milan, Italy, for the YMCA. However, because of the seriousness of submarine warfare at the time, he was sent to Camp Pike, Arkansas, until after the armistice. He was asked to come to the University of Arkansas for a week in December, 1918, to open a new building on the campus. Since he liked Arkansas so well, Mr. Gregson has been here ever since, doing YMCA work. He has handled problems in student employment, housing, and vocational guidance.

The duties of the Dean of Men include personal counseling, fraternity problems, student government advising, housing, and employment. In addition to these duties, Mr. Gregson is Director of Religious Activities on the campus. He also has a full-time job as manager of the Student Union.

STUDENT SENATE

The Student Senate has had another very successful year this year under the able leadership of "Parson" Bill Flynt.

The Senate is composed of the officers of the Associated Students, representatives from all of the schools and colleges on the campus and one-third of the senators were appointed by the President from the minority party candidates for the senate and associated student offices. This was the first time in the history of the Student Senate that the minority party has had a member of the senate unless elected in the annual spring election.

"Parson" Flynt took over the office of president in the spring of last year in time to plan a Memorial Day service which was held May 30 in the auditorium of "Old Main". Mr. John P. Woods of Ft. Smith was the guest speaker at this impressive service held in honor of all the former students of the University who lost their lives in World War II.

These senators began their regular year's work last spring by appointing the various student committees, who served throughout the entire school year and strived to carry out the program of student government to the highest degree.

One of the largest jobs the Student Senate undertook this year was the movement, instigated by Sonny Kellar, to sponsor a campaign to get school jackets for all students. Because of lack of school spirit shown here on our campus in the past few years, as well as over the state as a whole, it was thought that the purchase of jackets would increase the enthusiasm of the students toward all school activities. The plan at the time of going to press was for the price of these jackets to be included in the fees for each student one semester while he is in the University. These jackets will probably be available for the students at the opening of the fall semester, 1946, to be worn to all sports activities.

The Student Senate meets regularly twice each month on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Every undergraduate woman student who enrolls in the University is a member of the Association of Women Students, which was formed to serve as a coordinator of women's activities. Through its channel, women students are given an opportunity progressively to assume the responsibility of self-government.

Under the leadership of Mary Ella Crook, the spring festival last April started a very successful year for A.W.S. Tapping of Sophomore Council, a faculty skit, a fashion review, and a picnic supper were all a part of the success of this large meeting in the amphitheater.

At the first of the school year the annual orientation program was presented for all freshmen and transfer women students with the assistance of Sophomore Council. Later a mass meeting for all women students was held and the work of the various committees was illustrated in a short skit given by the committee chairmen.

The St. Nick, Vice-Versa Dance was the chief social function of the year. The entire Union reflected the festive holiday spirit.

Miss Alice Lloyd, dean of women at the University of Michigan and prominent educational leader, was the guest of A.W.S. for two days in January for a lecture to campus leaders and two general convocations. A tea was given honoring Miss Lloyd and the huge attendance was evidence of the inspiration she brought to the campus.

A grooming clinic and a series of marriage lectures were also brought to the campus by A.W.S. Personal conferences as well as general lectures were a part of this clinic and enabled each girl to be helped with her individual problems.

When Mary Ella Crook, Shirley Ward, and Edwynne Morris left school at the end of the first semester, the several vacancies in the executive board were filled as follows: Paula Oliver, president; Helen Gaye Marsh, treasurer; Jean Chipman, secretary.

The executive board of A.W.S. is the group that plans and carries out all the projects sponsored by this organization. The board is composed of the officers of A.W.S. and committee chairmen.

Way out of the well-known rut has the Social Committee gone this past spring with the increase in enrollment. Whereas the main fateful question was until the spring term, "What on earth can we do?"—the new tune is, "When can we do it?" For six weeks at the beginning of the term these pugnacious people fought as to who could do what, and when it could be done; then the beautiful dawn came with the University Social calendar all in order, even though there were about five weeks straight with no general student dance in the ballroom. To combat this bugaboo the Committee arranged for several informal jukebox and orchestra dances over in the Women's Gym, which ended up to be quite a lot of fun.

Ten fraternities and sororities had their spring formals in the ballroom with the Lambda Chis starting the ball rolling on March 23, and the Sig Alphas having the last word on the Social Calendar, May 18. Carnall Hall held forth on May 17. Other organizations had their usual spring events. Among the big dances were the Law School, AGR, Engineers, Coterie, Agri, A-Club, and the Commerce Guild.

By far the biggest hop of the semester was the Homecoming Dance on November 3. Still, the renewal of so many of the traditional dances was great joy. The Lambda Chis had their Black and White Formal, the Sigma Nus their Sadie Hawkins dance and White Rose Formal, the Chi Omegas their Plantation Party, the Sigma Chis their Sweetheart Formal, and, of course, the Kappa Sigs had their annual Christmas Dinner Dance in their House.

On the Social Committee of '45-'46 every organized house on the campus was represented by its Social Chairman, which led to a more democratic approach to settling the little disputes. Ably led by Joe Matlock, PiKA, the Social Committee organized several all-student picnics to Lake Weddington and Burns Gables which were well attended and enjoyed by all. The arrangements for these were completed and carried out by Mrs. Earle Lawrence of the Personnel Office, who was the right-hand man of all the Social Committee and to whom the majority of the credit goes for a successful social year.

The Commerce library attracts Carroll, Broyles, DeLamar, Frantz, Meeks, White, Basham, Evans, and Worley—all hard-working business students.

Mr. Cole instructs his class on International Business Machines in the Business Office.

Mr. Kerr looks out from behind his numerous troubles and papers of 3000 students.

Connie Wanasek and Sonny Henson decide whether that class is worth registering for.

Raymond Bradley and Lady Jo Abbott concentrate avidly on the English assignment.

The Home Economics bacteriology lab provides many interesting experiments for the girls.

Dr. Dellinger's zoology lab discusses the pros and cons of an amoeba.

Dick Pratt sighs over his engineering board as his pen slips.

Henry Frantz and King Basham put the pressure on Dr. Hunsberger.

Emmy Lou Thomas and her "old man", Clarence, gaze at the bulletin board on their way to the Union grill.

Miss Joy Lee Kirkpatrick, Pi Phi, reigns supreme with her Homecoming maids in attendance.

Please, please, team! Just one more touchdown! Aw, come on, please!

Chi Omega calls to the city to be on hand at two o'clock for the Homecoming football game.

"Miss Texas", Jane Adams, and her maids are not going to miss a single play.

Dean Scudder beams for the camera while entertaining a visiting army official.

Sarah Riley and Joe Evrard are certainly happy about something at the Sigma Chi Christmas dinner-dance as Lillian Russell dances by.

RAZORBACK photographer, Helen DeLamar, snaps the Pi Phi Homecoming decorations while sister Oldham and McCauley look on.

Governor Ben Laney is made an honorary member of Gamma Iota.

Fran Tomlinson and Neal Gentry wish each other a "Merry Christmas" after the Pi Phi Christmas formal.

Mary Jane Collum gives out with a bit of music in the Chio living room.

Arch Pickens entertains the coeds at the Kappa Sig Christmas open house.

Dick Seibold acts as M.C. at the Sigma Chi annual kid party.

"Parting is such sweet sorrow" for Shultz and Abbott at the Chi Omega front door.

Betty Branch and Bob Cutting cheer the team on and thoroughly enjoy the game.

Santa Clauses Jim McCauley and Swan Swindle give out favors at one of the Christmas formals.

Jim Hawk and Cook give the little lady a big rush at the Sigma Nu house.

President Harding crowns Joy Lee as Homecoming Queen.

But wait! It could not be! Yes, the big old buses began to run in Fayetteville at last.

It was just too crowded in the Union grill for everyone to get in, so the girls adjourned to the hall to wait for a cup of coffee.

December 20 1945

Dear Miss Gary:

I certainly appreciate the honor you have conferred upon me, but you surely gave me a tough assignment to choose the most beautiful girl.

The girls are all so pretty, it was almost impossible to make the selection. However, after much deliberation, I have done so and my choice is:

Ann Weeks
Becky Lude
Charline Cupp
Billy Beth Craig

I hope all the students will realize that the selection was made entirely on the basis of the photographs submitted. No doubt some of the pictures do not do justice to the girls and others might be quite flattering.

I certainly hope my selection meets with the Student Body's approval.

Again thanks for the honor and thanks for your interest.

With best personal wishes, I am,

Sincerely,

Miss Betty Gary, Editor

THE COACHING STAFF

Coach Glen Rose led the Razorback football team through the 1945 season. Rose is one of our own graduates, finishing with honors in 1928. While an under-graduate in the middle and late '20's, Big Glen was named to the All-Southwest conference football team one time and the All-Southwest basketball team three times. He also starred in baseball and participated in track.

After his graduation in 1928, Rose spent the following year as head coach at Jonesboro Baptist College. He then returned to his own alma mater, where he has been ever since, with the exception of time out for military duty from 1942 to 1944.

Rose was named head basketball coach in 1934. In his eight years as basketball coach, his teams won or shared five conference titles, as well as breaking even in two Sugar Bowl cage events.

A native of Siloam Springs, Rose attended high school in North Little Rock. He earned his master's degree at the University of Arkansas and is also a graduate of a coaching school conducted by the late Knute Rockne.

Rose was ably assisted by John F. Tomlin and Clyde Van Sickle. Answering the nickname of "Bud", Tomlin is a native of Washington, D. C., and he played high school football for Muskogee, Oklahoma. Tomlin was an outstanding tackle on the West Coast, playing for Oregon State. After graduation from there, Tomlin took up his coaching career at Westville, Oklahoma. He coached at Maud and Vinita before coming to Arkansas in 1942 as freshman coach. In 1943 Bud became head coach, and in 1944 he became assistant coach when Rose returned from military service.

Coach Van Sickle also is a Razorback Alumnus and was an All-Southwest conference guard during his undergraduate days. After finishing school, "Van" entered professional football, and was a regular with the Philadelphia Yellowjackets. Later he became a regular for the champion Green Bay Packers.

Van Sickle's coaching experience includes assignments at DeQueen and Little Rock in Arkansas; Okmulgee, Oklahoma; and Cisco, Texas. At Little Rock his teams lost only five games in five years.

In 1941 Van Sickle returned to Arkansas as freshman coach, and was moved up to an assistant's post in 1942. He served as head scout for the Razorbacks.

Others included on the football staff are: Billy Bowe, a university student, trainer; Jack Holt, also a student, supply manager; Johnnie Porter, publicity director; and Mrs. Goldie Jones, secretary.

Though the football season was not too successful this year, Coach Glen can still boast a 27-14 victory over the powerful Horned Frogs of Texas Christian, who wound up third in the conference. The Razorbacks also held the All-American Bob Fenimore and the Oklahoma Aggies to a bare five point win, the score being 14-19. Other victories were scored over Barksdale Field and Ole Miss.

Pre-season prognosticators who gave Arkansas a chance of winning the conference crown overestimated the Razorbacks' strength and underestimated that of our opponents. The prognostications were based on our eight lettermen, all key men, who were returning for the 1945 season. These lettermen were: Calvin Lane, Alton Baldwin, Tommy Donoho, and Frank Schumchyk in the backfield; Henry Ford, guard; Earl Wheeler, center; Charlie Johnson, tackle; and Mike Schumchyk, end. Ford and Wheeler served as co-captains.

Also, the Razorbacks had reserves such as Collie, Counce, and DeSalvo returning. High school men and veterans made up the rest of the team. Among these we have Buck Forsythe, Harold Henson, Bud Canada, Jake Baldwin, John Hoffman, and Edward Michael.

Hoffman and Canada ranked high in conference statistics. Hoffman stood high in the conference on yardage gained by rushing, and Canada was among the top in yardage gained in returning kicks.

Razorbacks March Through

The Razorbacks opened the football season against Barksdale Field in Shreveport. Though several Arkansas boys were out with injuries, the team managed to squeeze by a 12-6 victory. It was only in the last quarter that the Razorbacks forged ahead to win. Barksdale held a 6-0 lead up until this final quarter. Then the Razorbacks scored on a pass from Mitchell Young to Mike Schumchyk. The second score came a few minutes later when big John Hoffman plowed through center; less than two minutes after that the game ended.

Our first home game was with the powerful Oklahoma Aggies. Led by All-American Bob Fenimore, the Ags gave us our first defeat, 19-14. Both teams staged a strong defensive battle for the first two quarters, the score being 7-0 for the Aggies. Then in the third quarter Calvin Smith lateraled to Alton Baldwin far out to the right, who threw to Mike Schumchyk in the end zone, to completely baffle the Aggie secondary. Hoffman place-kicked the extra point to tie the score at 7-7.

Then the Ags began their powerful offensive movements. Bob Fenimore broke away and scored on an eighty-yard run. The Aggies scored again before Arkansas could recover. Neither try for extra point was good. In the fourth quarter Arkansas scored on a pass to Buck Forsythe, who carried the ball twenty yards for a touchdown. In the closing minutes of the game the Razorbacks threatened to score again, but they lost the ball with two minutes left to play.

The Razorbacks got away to a good start in the conference race by defeating Texas Christian, 27-14. The first score came in the first quarter when Baldwin received a 33-yard pass from Bud Canada. A similar play occurred in the second period when Baldwin received a 25-yard pass from Calvin Smith. The Frogs then scored on a pass play from Joslin to Mason, who scored after eluding two Razorbacks. The half ended with Arkansas leading, 13-7.

The Razorbacks added another seven points in the third quarter by intercepting a pass and running 49 yards for a touchdown. The Frogs scored again in the fourth quarter on a pass from Hudgins to Mitcham.

Traveling to Waco, the Razorbacks received their first conference setback. A supposedly weaker Baylor team surprised Arkansas with a 23-13 upset. Arkansas scored first in the first quarter as Canada passed to Baldwin, but the Bears knotted the count in the second on an end around play by Price. In the third quarter Arkansas added another touchdown when Baldwin raced down the field 79 yards to the 1-yard line, then plunged over the next play. This was completely offset when Baylor scored two touchdowns in the same quarter. The first was the result of a long touchdown drive, and the second came on a pass from Price to Joiner. Leal added a field goal for the Bears in the fourth to put the game on ice.

Returning to Little Rock the next week, the Razorbacks took a trouncing at the hands of the Texas Longhorns by a score of 34-7. Four of the five Texas touchdowns were the result of intercepted passes. Two came in the first quarter. Plyler intercepted Canada's pass and Graham intercepted Baldwin's pass, both within Arkansas's 25-yard line. Arkansas's lone score was in the first quarter, coming after a long series of passes and ground plays. Schumchyk carried the ball the last 14 yards on an end around play. Another Texas score was added before the end of the half.

In the second half the Longhorns added two more touchdowns. Billy Andrews, water boy, tried to drop kick the last Texas extra point, but, being forced to run, was dragged down by Donoho.

Arkansas scored its final victory over Ole Miss in Memphis, 19-0. John Hoffman led his teammates all the way through with his powerful ground plays. Neither team scored until two minutes before the end of the first half. Calvin Smith sent a 43-yard pass to Mike Schumchyk, who caught it over his left shoulder and ran 15 yards for a touchdown. Early in the fourth, the Razorbacks marched 73 yards down the field to pay dirt, Smith scoring from the 2. Later in the fourth Harold Henson intercepted a Rebel pass and ran 40 yards for the final score. Only twice did the Rebels pierce the Razorback 30-yard line.

Returning to Fayetteville, the Razorbacks met Texas A & M in our annual homecoming tussle. Joy Lee Kirkpatrick, Pi Beta Phi from Fayetteville, was queen for the affair. Jane Adams, Tri Delt of Beaumont, Texas, served as Miss Texas A & M. Getting off to a quick start, the Aggies smothered Arkansas, 34-0. At the end of the first quarter the score was 20-0, and by the end of the half the score stood at 27-0. The Aggies made good use of numerous Razorback fumbles, and scored three touchdowns before Arkansas could get started. Ballentine, reserve Aggie back, converted four out of five tries for extra points after touchdown successfully.

Moving to Houston the following Saturday, the Razorbacks dropped another conference tilt to the Rice Owls, 26-7. Hugh Keeney, 17-year old freshman, led the Owls all the way through. Twice he broke loose for 58-yard runs, but once it was called back because of an off-side penalty. The Owls scored once in the first quarter, once in the second and two times in the fourth. The lone Razorback counter came in the third quarter. Not only did Rice lead in score, but they led by a big margin in statistics. They gained more than three times as much as Arkansas did on the ground, and close to five times as much in the air. Hoffman and Canada led the Razorbacks in netting 128 yards by rushing.

In the final conference tilt the Razorbacks lost to Southern Methodist University, 21-0. Doak Walker led the Mustangs as he scored two touchdowns, gained 61 yards rushing, and completed 9 passes for 120 yards. The first touchdown was the result of a series of ground and pass plays. Walker plunged over from the 1. The second score followed soon after. Walker received a punt, and, falling behind excellent blocking, ran 57 yards for a touchdown. In the third, Maley went through right guard to score the Mustangs' final tally. S. M. U. held Arkansas in check all the way through. Only twice did the Razorbacks pierce the Mustangs' thirty-yard line.

Arkansas wound up the season with a turkey day game with Tulsa, going down before the powerful Golden Hurricanes, 45-13. Tulsa scored before two minutes of the game had passed, and after that they ran six more over—two in each quarter except the fourth, when they only scored one. Arkansas scored in the third and fourth quarters. Calvin Lane broke through the line for 31 yards and our first tally. In the fourth quarter, big John Hoffman dashed 68 yards down the field to score the second touchdown.

Though the season was not so successful, three Razorbacks were given All-American honorable mention. They are John Hoffman, Mike Schumchyk, and Alton Baldwin.

JOHN H. BARNHILL

A complete new coaching staff has been named to coach the Razorbacks in the 1946 season. Four new coaches have come to the campus, all graduates from the University of Tennessee, and three of them former coaches at the University of Tennessee. Arkansas is going to make an attempt to put the Razorback football team up on top during the coming years.

John H. Barnhill is the new football coach and athletic director. Barnhill has a full staff of capable men to assist him during the coming football season. Herbert Brackett is the new backfield coach, assisted by George Cole. Hobart Hooser is line coach, and William Barnes is end coach. Glen Rose has been shifted to business manager of the athletic office.

Coach Barnhill came here from the University of Tennessee, where he has been head football coach since 1942. He played three years of football for Tennessee, climaxed by captaincy and All-Southern honors in 1927. After graduating, Barnhill coached three years in Bristol, Virginia, High School. Then he returned to Tennessee, where he has been up to now.

Coach Brackett, better known as "Deke", came with Barnhill from Tennessee. Brackett played three years as quarterback for Tennessee, graduating in 1934. He coached at Hampden Sydney College and the Citadel before returning to Tennessee.

George Cole is another of our Arkansas boys. Cole served as head coach in 1942 when Fred Thomsen left for military service, but he left for the navy immediately after that football season. Cole also was an All-Southwest conference player. He was best known for his educated toe, with which he won several games for the Razorbacks.

Coach Hooser also came here with Coach Barnhill. Hooser played guard for Tennessee, in the opposite position from Barnhill. After graduating, Hooser coached Lake City High School of Florida, where he made some remarkable records. During his twelve years as coach, his team won seven high school track meets and five conference football championships. Hooser then returned to Tennessee for two years.

Bill Barnes is another Tennessee graduate. Bill was a back and end for Tennessee, graduating in 1941. Since then he has been in military service. He has forty-three months' service overseas, and has been awarded the silver star, bronze star, and the legion of merit. Barnes served as athletic officer of his division while in the states.

Another new man on the staff, though not a coach, will play a big part in the success of the Razorbacks. His name is John "Red" Davis, our new publicity director. Mr. Davis has served as a sports writer in Florida for thirty-five years, and has been chairman of the All-southern High School Football Board for twenty-six years. Twice Mr. Davis was elected to the Democratic National Convention, in 1936 and 1940. He is past Lieutenant Governor in Kiwanis.

The Razorback basketball team was capably led this year by Coach Eugene Lambert. Lambert led the squad in taking second place in the conference, winning sixteen out of twenty-three games.

Coach Lambert is a graduate of Arkansas, taking an active part in football, basketball, track, and tennis. He was named on the All-Southwest conference rolls as an end in football and a guard in basketball.

After graduating, Lambert served as coach in Texarkana High School, North Texas Junior College, and Kenyon College. He returned to his own alma mater in 1934 as freshman coach, and became head basketball coach in 1942. Lambert has won one championship in four years as coach.

Those who served on Lambert's staff were: Sam Langsford, trainer; Joe McGill, student manager; and Mrs. Goldie Jones, secretary.

Pre-season dopesters, as in football, were looking for Arkansas to win another conference championship. Arkansas started the season with eight of the 1945 lettermen. Two of these were lost, for Ocie Ritchie, who was chosen captain for 1946, decided to return to Southern Louisiana State Normal, and Mike Schumchyk went to the army.

Though Arkansas only took second place, Lambert turned in two All-Southwest conference selections. George Kok, who became captain when Ritchie left, was put on the all-conference first team as a forward. Kok was high scorer in the conference, with a total of 388 points. Bill Flynt filled a guard slot on the all-conference second team.

Howard Hughes won the free throw trophy, with an average of .727.

GAMES

The Razorbacks started the basketball season with two games with service teams. Our team scored easy victories over both, defeating War Department Personnel Center of Camp Chaffee, 76-35, and Sedalia Army Air Field, 101-37.

George Kok and Charles Jolliff both set high scoring marks in the two games, Kok scoring 45 points, and Jolliff scoring 37. In the second game, Jolliff suffered a knee injury, which kept him out of full time duty for the rest of the season.

Arkansas then moved to Little Rock, where the team played a two-game series with Western Kentucky. Keeping their record clean, the Razorbacks walked away with two more wins, 66-46 and 67-38. Kok again took high scoring honors with 46 points.

Our first real opposition was from the Memphis N. A. T. T. C. Hellcats. Arkansas fans watched the Razorbacks trail during the whole game, up until the last two minutes. In these final minutes Bill Flynt dropped three field goals to give the team their fifth win. The score, 52-47. Kok, as usual, came out on top in scoring honors with 18 points.

Taking to the Road, the Razorbacks received their first two set-backs, at the hands of New York and Kentucky Universities. N. Y. U. squeezed by Arkansas by a bare 63-62. Ken Kearns took scoring honors with 17 points, while Kok went out in the third quarter with a leg injury.

Kok was still out with his leg injury for the Kentucky tilt. Kentucky ran over Arkansas, 66-42, our worst defeat, except for Oklahoma A & M. McGaha was high scorer with 14 points.

Arkansas was forced to withdraw from the All-College Invitational tournament in Oklahoma City because of injuries. Kok and Jolliff were still on the injured list, and several others had minor injuries. Also, Earl Wheeler had gone to California to participate in the East-West football game.

Returning from the Christmas holidays, the Razorbacks started conference opposition with Texas on the Razorback court. The Longhorns' two all-conference men, Madsen and Cox, couldn't stop Arkansas as they took the two-game series, 55-47 and 90-63. It was in this series that Kok took the lead in conference scoring by pouring in 43 points.

Traveling to Waco, the Razorbacks took the first game of a double-header, 49-37, but the Bears staged an effective stall in the second game to win, 40-28. Lambert had employed a zone defense up until this game, but since this stalling was drawing the men away from the basket, he found it necessary to switch back to a man-to-man defense.

After the Baylor series the team got a two-week rest from basketball to take their final examinations. Then Camp Hood came to Fayetteville, and Arkansas won an easy 62-53 victory.

A few additions to the squad strengthened the Razorbacks at the beginning of the second semester. Howard Hughes, former Little Rock star, entered the University and joined the basketball team. Also, Harold Henson and John Hoffman were added to the squad.

A change in the schedule called for the Razorbacks to play six conference games in a period of nine days, all in Fayetteville. Southern Methodist came first for a two-game series. The Razorbacks easily won both games, 81-53 and 74-46. Bill Flynt was high scorer in the series with 37 points. It was also in these games that Earl Wheeler began hitting the basket with his spectacular long jump-shots.

Two days following the S. M. U. series, Rice came to Fayetteville for a double-header. Kok hit the meshes for 50 points as Arkansas easily trimmed Rice two times. The scores, 62-45 and 68-25.

The Razorbacks finished the hard week with a two-game series with Texas Christian. Amid the flying towels and curses from the T. C. U. coach, the Horned Frogs tried a stall when the Razorbacks held a ten-point lead. Bill Flynt, the ball-stealing parson, took the ball and sat down with it for 65 seconds. Arkansas froze the ball for eight minutes before giving it up. No more stalls were attempted during the rest of the game. Kok was high scorer in the series with 36 points.

Traveling to Stillwater, Arkansas dropped two games to the powerful Oklahoma Aggies. The scores were 53-29 and 46-31. Returning to Fayetteville the squad defeated a quintet from Camp Chaffee, 64-53. This was the last home game.

The Razorbacks completed the 1946 season by splitting a double-header with Texas A & M in College Station. Kok again was high scorer with 22 points.

INTRAMURALS

An extensive intramural program was carried on this year. Twelve organizations took part in football, basketball, volley ball, boxing, wrestling, ping pong, snooker, track, tennis, baseball, and golf.

Flip Dougherty and Jim Boyd served as intramural managers the first semester, and Jim Boyd carried the full load the second semester when Flip left school. John "Bud" Tomlin and Clyde Van Sickle were the sponsors from the athletic department.

The Sig Alphas took first place in football by winning a final play-off game with the Sigma Chis. Pi Kappa Alpha placed third. Town and Theta Tau ranked fourth and fifth.

In basketball Pi Kappa Alpha easily won first place by winning 11 games without a single defeat. SAE came in second with 9 wins against 2 defeats. 4-F, Sigma Chi, and Razorback placed third, fourth, and fifth.

Only eight teams participated in volley ball. Sigma Alpha Epsilon won first place with a clean slate of 9 victories against no defeats. Sigma Chi suffered only one defeat to cop second place. Then PiKA, Lambda Chi, and Theta Tau.

Pi Kappa Alpha took first place in boxing and wrestling, with SAE and Kappa Sigma coming in second and third. "Red" Johnson was referee for the matches, and Clyde Van Sickle and Bud Tomlin were judges.

Here are the first and second place winners of each event and their weight division:

WRESTLING: 121—Charles Crook, SAE, and Clift Rotherum, PiKA; 128—Skeeter Frasier, PiKA, and Bert Jordan, PiKA; 136—Marty Measel, PiKA, and Dan Woods, KA; 145—A. L. Harris, SAE, and Bill Newman, SAE; 155—John Calhoun, KZ, and Sam Hauert, KZ; 165—Bill Bowen, SAE, and John Manuel, SN; 175—Mitchell Young, PiKA, and Charley Conway, KZ; Heavyweight—Kurt Bender, KZ, and Fred Hunt, SAE.

BOXING: 112—J. P. Crumpler, SAE, (No challenge); 118—Clift Rotherum, PiKA, (No challenge); 126—Bert Jordan, PiKA, and Skeeter Frasier, PiKA; 135—Harold Measel, PiKA, and Walter Williams, PiKA; 145—Russell Lafferty, Raz., and L. C. Waggoner, Raz.; 160—Calvin Lane, Raz., and Bob Duck, SAE; 175—Mitchell Young, PiKA, and Dallen Leach, Raz.; Heavyweight—Joyce Pipkin, PiKA, and Kurt Bender, KZ.

The following teams participated in intramurals: PiKA, SAE, KZ, 4-F, Sigma Chi, Razorback Hall, Baker House, Town, G. I., U-Ark, Sigma Nu, and Lambda Chi.

COLONEL BRANNER PACE PURDUE

With the figure of War slinking off into the pages of history, the University's Military Arts Department this year resumed its regular duties of training red-blooded young Americans.

Colonel Branner Pace Purdue, graduate of West Point and a native of Fayetteville, whose distinguished service in the recent war conferred upon him the Silver Star with two Oak Leaf Clusters, the Combat Infantry Badge, the Bronze Star with one Oak Leaf Cluster, the Legion of Merit, the Croix de Guerre of France, and the Order of Alexander Nevsky of Russia, arrived on the campus in November to direct the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Colonel Purdue is the son of Professor and Mrs. A. H. Purdue, both previous faculty members at the University for a number of years.

The colonel's first war-time duty in 1942 was helping develop the tank destroyers branch of the service. He prepared five manuals for the tank destroyers while serving as director of the department of tactics in the Tank Destroyer School at Camp Hood, Texas.

Besides being sent to Libya and Egypt as an observer with the British Eighth Army during the critical battles that preceded the Allied invasion of North Africa, Colonel Purdue commanded the 120th Infantry Regiment of the 30th Division overseas in 1944. His regiment helped penetrate the Siegfried line, spearheaded the drive to the Roer River, rushed south to stop the German drive into Belgium, and finally helped them in the German troops by driving south to the vicinity of St. Vith. The regiment's last campaign was to spearhead the crossing of the Rhine in March, 1945. The colonel remained with the occupation forces for a time and was enroute to the Pacific by way of the United States when Japan surrendered.

Three assistants to the colonel, all recent arrivals, complete the military staff.

Major R. G. Winckler reported for duty at the University of Arkansas in March, 1946. He is a native of San Antonio and a graduate of Texas A and M College. Major Winckler served overseas in China with the Chinese Combat Command.

CAPT. SIMMONS, CAPT. WUNDERLICH, CAPT. KENT

Captain H. R. Kent is a graduate of the University of Arkansas and is a native of Fayetteville. He was a company commander of a Tank Destroyer Battalion in France and Italy.

Captain J. E. Gibson from Summers, Arkansas, is also a graduate of the University of Arkansas who served overseas as a company commander of the 2nd Infantry Division, in England and France. He reported for duty at the University in December, 1945.

Pictured are Captain Simmons and Captain Wunderlich, who were on the military staff at the first of the year.

CAPTAINS AND SPONSORS

JAMES STONE, AUSTIN BOLLEN

One of the most talked about affairs of the year was the annual Military Ball which was attended by all ROTC and their dates. Betty Alexander, mathematics major from Mena, sponsored her steady, Austin Bollen, one of the company's two captains at this Military Ball held November 30. Betty also had the honor of reigning over Engineers Day this year as St. Patricia along with Austin as St. Pat. She lives at Carnall Hall, where fellow residents swear the five minute phone call limit does not mean a thing to Betty. Only a freshman, she has a highly developed joining instinct—belongs to Coterie, Boots and Spurs, Rootin' Rubes, the Carnall governing board, and is harder to get hold of than Eleanor on the run.

Jane Dickinson, Chi Omega from Horatio, was the other Captain's Lady who watched Company A drill during intermission at the Military Ball. She sponsored James Stone from Pine Bluff. This affable brunette is a chemistry major and plans to graduate this summer, then ply her trade in Louisiana. Jane is a member of Rootin' Rubes and on the Honor Roll.

Cadet first lieutenants this year were Beverly Berry, James C. Clarke, Hartman Hotz, Robert W. Ragsdale, L. C. Waggoner, and Dorsey W. Woodson. Cadet second lieutenants were Paul M. Davis, James L. Fischer, John H. Lawrence, Lawrence Witherspoon, and Daniel H. Woods.

JANE DICKINSON, BETTY ALEXANDER

MILITARY COMPANY

Every clear Tuesday and Thursday from four to five R.O.T.C.ers drill. On rainy or threateningly cloudy days, they stay inside to study tactics and weapons.

All junior and senior officers were lost to the selective service during the war, but seventy-one blossomed forth this year to double the pre-war average.

About one hundred fifteen basic students enrolled for 1945-46, hitting the twenty-five per cent mark on pre-war averages.

Since there were no graduates of the advanced courses this year (they did not flunk, it was the war), there was no Scabbard and Blade, national honorary society for advanced students which was first organized in 1916. This organization and the Pershing Rifles, national honorary society for basic students, will be reactivated in the fall of 1946.

Also discontinued during the war were the summer camps for advanced ROTC members. The next one will probably be held at Camp Bullis, Texas, in 1947.

The sister organization of Scabbard and Blade is Guidon, which is composed of the sponsors of the Regimental officers. But here again the lack of advanced student graduates interferes.

The ROTC Band is composed of regular students who prefer playing a musical instrument to drilling. The only catch is that they have to be able to play the instrument well. The University Band is built around the nucleus of the ROTC Band. Right now there is a slight shortage of musicians, but Band Director M. S. Zahrt is working on the problem, so prospects for next year are bright. The band plays for parades, ceremonies, and other military functions.

"Left shoulder—arms" is the order being given.

A CLUB

OFFICERS

BEN JONES	President
EARL WHEELER	Vice-President
GOLDIE JONES	Secretary

The "real he-men" of the campus make up the membership to the A Club. To be eligible for active membership in this top-notch group of athletic men, a varsity letter in any major sport must be won, and to win a Varsity "A" is the highest athletic honor that can be bestowed by the University.

The men who organized the club in 1922 firmly believed that "athletics are a necessary part of college life, that they contribute to welding the student body together, and that athletic contests are a big factor in the production of school spirit and loyalty."

One of the highlights on the spring social calendar was the A Club dance which was held April 17, in the Student Union ballroom. As this was the night after the last spring game, it gave that finishing touch for the year. It was an evening to go down as "a date to remember" by all the members and their dates. All organized houses on the campus were issued blanket bids, and with all these men plus the A Clubbers, the stag line was terrific.

One of the club's projects for this year was to keep high school or other athletic letters from being worn on this campus by students. This was to foster school spirit. Also, all members were required to sport their letters every Wednesday of each week.

Coach John H. Barnhill and his staff were elected honorary members of the big "A" this spring. Members of Barnhill's staff are Herbert Brackett, H o b a r t Hooser, Bill Barnes, and Sam Lankford.

Mrs. Goldie Jones, an honorary member, acted as secretary and treasurer this year. She is the only woman member of this "cream of the crop" athletic organization.

Maurice "Footsie" Britt and Nathan Gordon, both Congressional Medal of Honor men, are two former members.

Coach George Cole, who has just returned from the Navy, is their sponsor.

ARKANSAS BOOSTERS CLUB

ABC boys, the number one Razorback backers, are famed for their untiring efforts to keep student enthusiasm behind the team high. In the words of Prexy Charles Jolliff, they are a "pep organization representative of all fraternities and organized groups of men to support student support and interest in athletics and other student activities."

Under the sponsorship of "Pop" Gregson, the club's permanent secretary, they conducted pep rallies, send-offs and welcome-home banquets for the football team. And, of course, the Homecoming entertainment at the half.

For the "Hogs", or ABC frosh, said half ended a gruesome pledgship in a still more gruesome way. It was preceded by a final pledge dinner when they took their "lunch" of undelicious delectables and enjoyed their fares on the floor at some sorority house. A ritual also took place, including the singing of the Alma Mater, yell songs, and usually some "whacks" from the initiates. By this time, "Hogs" were so weary of having paddles signed (for a price) and carrying cigar boxes full of candy, gum and such—for standard equipment, read Hog Rule No. 8—they welcomed final ceremonies at the Homecoming half.

This year Arkansas and Rice fans alike enjoyed the fun when the boys appeared in uniform—all white with red accessories. Red bags, felt hats. Exactly half the face displayed lipstick, powder, rouge; the other half was left blanchingly pale. First a greased porker was released to be caught by some "Hog". This time the poor little fellow fainted when he got squeezed, so the task wasn't too difficult. Then, according to best ABC tradition, the boys were de-shoed and proceeded backwards at a sort of topside-up walk on hands and feet to a pile, found their two shoes, and raced off the field. Onlookers especially enjoyed the clumsy antics of B. W. Chaffin and Leon Werntz vieing for Best Hog honors under the encouragement of impatient members' paddles.

As sponsor for all Homecoming activities, ABC took pride in the festivities, offering prizes for the best decorations of house and float, and in charge of the crowning of the Homecoming Queen at the half. After the game, a steak dinner was given for the team, at which Charles Jolliff presided.

Responsible for putting over the pep rallies, ABC saw to it that by cooperative effort, and rivalry between the campus groups, the team was given a morale-building send-off. When the game was an out of town one, the Red and White ABC jackets turned up at the station, usually at dawn, with their sister organization, Root-in' Rubes, to do their best. Before home games, they placed posters and slogans around the campus, displayed placards in the stands, and most important, helped the cheer leaders by making the yells loud and strong.

Nor did activities stop with the end of the football season. Throughout the basketball season the ABCers backed cheerleaders and supported the game vigorously. New cheerleaders elected by ABC were: Joy Johnston, Marian Davis, Miriam Orr, and Margaret Ann Godt.

Orchesis, modern dance organization, started its fifth year off with a bang this fall by giving an exhibition of modern dance techniques in the ballroom of the Student Union. The purpose of the demonstration was to acquaint the students with the techniques of modern dance.

One of the main purposes of Orchesis is to work toward exhibition, and each spring and fall a performance is planned by the group. Part of the work of the students in Orchesis is to make and design their own costumes for each demonstration.

Each of the weekly meetings consists of a study of techniques, which is followed by a period in which the girls create their own dances in groups. When it is possible the girls direct the group numbers. The organization also makes a study of music in relation to dance.

Until this year, try-outs were required before girls could become members, but this practice has been abandoned, because some girls have ability which develops more slowly than others, and now truly interested students may become members.

Miss Ludwig, modern dance instructor, has danced with Nancy McKnight, who had a dance group in Milwaukee; studied with Marian Van Tuyl, who is head of dance at Mills College; and taught dance at the University of California. She hopes in the future that there will be an opportunity to study other forms of dance besides Modern, such as: American Country Dance and Folk dances, especially those of South America and Mexico.

Orchesis was organized on the campus in 1937. Its purpose is to develop modern dance technique and to give its members an opportunity to compose as well as receive instructions on others' compositions.

CHEER LEADERS

"Yeah Red! Yeah White! Our Cheerleaders were red hot!" They yelled like hyenas, they jumped like jack-rabbits, they did glorious Hog calls, and they prayed like veteran medicine men. They were strictly in there fighting like the Razor-backs themselves. They did everything humanly possible to keep the student body yelling and the team going down that field.

Jean Pitcock, who, as head of the squad at the first of the year, really knew the ropes of the game. She could practically be classified as a professional as she has been the head cheerleader for two years and has been with the squad for four. She was an artist in the field, and will go down in everyone's blue book as "tops". Little Jeanie knew how to display that winning smile to the best advantage and was as fascinating to watch as a three ring circus.

After Jean graduated in January, Jimmy Wirtz took over as head man. He was outstanding in the field, too—and everyone knows he can do super flips and hand-springs, and has a yell that would stop the train ten miles outside of town.

At the beginning of the season the Hog-callers numbered ten; there were six girls and four boys. When Jean Pitcock left, Joy Johnston, a 1943 member, came back, still keeping the ratio six to four.

Unlike the crowd, the squad was out yelling, rain or shine—prepared to swelter, freeze, or be drenched.

The cheerleaders are elected by members of the ABC Club and the Rootin' Rubes. Dean Gregson is their advisor.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Women's Athletic Association is an organization of University women who are interested in games and sports. The purpose of the organization is to promote interest in recreational activities and to create good sportsmanship and cooperation on the University campus. Any girl is eligible who is interested in athletic activity and who pays the dues of one-half dollar a year.

The activities began this fall with a picnic for all women who were interested in W.A.A. It was held the latter part of September and about a hundred girls attended. Plans were made for the picnic to be held at Harmon Play Field, but due to rain and bad weather, it had to be held in the Women's Gym. Picnic food was served and indoor games were played.

This year W.A.A. has a new sponsor, Miss Natalie A. Bartlett of the Physical Education Department. For the last couple of years, W.A.A. has grown and expanded into many new fields. There have been intramural tournaments in three fields—baseball, volley ball, and soft ball. A tennis club has been formed which is co-recreational. Also, archery, table tennis, and badminton clubs have been organized. These are growing rapidly and are becoming very popular. A new activity was begun in the form of an outing club. This is composed of both men and women who are interested in long hikes and outdoor cooking. The rifle marksmanship club has been revised and out of this will be picked the best ones who will constitute a rifle team.

W.A.A. meets once every month in the ballroom of the Student Union. Each organized house is in charge of a program during the year which is to be purely entertainment. Refreshments are served at each meeting.

Early in the fall Chi Omega got their pledges and dates off on the right foot with a dinner dance. Then came Homecoming, with the pledges giving a party for the initiates. The latter part of November, there was a barn dance held in the Women's Gym.

December 7 was celebrated much differently from the same date four years ago. This was the date of the Chio Christmas Formal, held in the Union. The annual serenade followed. One evening in December marked the time in which the faculty dropped in for tea. On February 16, all fraternity men were entertained in the chapter house at a jolly open house.

In March, an informal party was held. May 4 was the event of the annual plantation party for members, pledges, rushees, and dates, which was held in the chapter house and Union ballroom. After the dance the girls serenaded.

Quite a few honors came to Chi Omega. Miriam Orr, Virginia Lee Best, and Joy Johnston were cheerleaders; Eula Nell Edwards and Joan Dorris were named for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities (Eula Nell was also Phi Beta Kappa and Mortar Board prexy); Porter Henslee was chosen Interfraternity Queen; Jane Dickinson rated the Major's Lady at the Military Ball; and for a Homecoming honor, Chio won second place with her float.

Prexy Lillie Jean Trimble was also prexy of Sigma Alpha Iota; Helen White was vice-president of YWCA and co-winner of the Pfeifer scholarship; Martha Washington was elected prexy of AED; Edwynne Morris was vice-president of AWS, Student Senator, and Commerce Guild; and Betty Fox was vice-president of Mixed Chorus.

Three Chios took time out to be pinned: Peggy Brown, Bill Jett, Kappa Sig; Claire Sallee, Lewis Thompson, Sigma Chi; and Ann Pattillo, Gene Spradling, Sig Alph.

Edwynne Morris, Mary Jo Gibson, Jo Claire Adamson, Ann Allman, and Marilyn Lookadoo dusted off their third fingers, left hand, and became engaged. Virginia Lee Best walked to the altar with Gerald "Pot" Barnes, Sig Alph; and Edwina Carnahan married Gail Oglesby, USN.

Chi Omega was founded at the University of Arkansas on April 5, 1895. It has grown to be the largest national women's social fraternity in the United States. Psi chapter is now in its 51st year. It was the first Greek group on the Arkansas campus.

Mrs. Bennie Alexander is the beloved, capable housemother. Better known as "Mother B", she it is who keeps the house running smoothly.

National publications are the Eleusis and Mystagogue, the former of which is sent to all chapters four times a year. The colors of Chi Omega are cardinal and straw, and the sorority flower is the pure white carnation.

Delta Delta Delta was founded at Boston University in 1888. Delta Iota chapter came to the University of Arkansas in 1913. The colors are silver, gold, and blue, and the flower is the pansy.

Tri Delt started its social season with an open house for veterans on October 7. Refreshments and dancing were the order of the day to show the eager post-G.I.'s that the women of the University are really knocked-out.

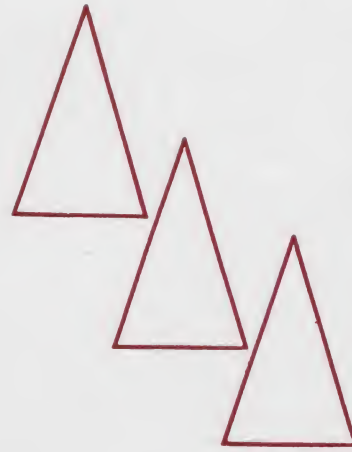

October 30 the Delta Shelter was in bridal array for the reception of June Harlan, who was married to Lt. William Pennington. November 2 saw the crescent girls at a tea dance in the Union ballroom in honor of the pledges. Each pledge was introduced as she stepped through a crescent made of pine boughs. Dates were entertained at the house after the dance.

It seems that November was quite eventful. The annual fall formal was held in the Union. At intermission Mother Perrin entertained the chaperons in the Blue Room. Immediately after the dance, breakfast was served to girls and dates in the chapter house.

November 3 the football boys dropped in for coffee after a hard-fought game. The annual Founders Day Banquet was an event of November 28 at the Washington Hotel. On December 7 the Tri Delts were hostesses for a faculty reception.

December 13 the girls had a Christmas party in the chapter house, at which they exchanged gifts. Tommy Watson was Santa Claus. Tommy has probably decided that 13 is a lucky number after all, because just to show Santa how much they appreciated the gifts, each girl bestowed a kiss on his eager face!

The pansy misses came back from Christmas holidays to a dessert bridge held in the house on January 2. The current of conversation ran: "Did you have a good time on Christmas?" "Oh, yes, tell me what all you did!" And so it goes.

Boys will never understand. On February 23, veterans were again honored, this time with a tea dance.

The highlight of the spring was the ranch party held at the house for rushees on April 13. The party was a super-deluxe affair, complete with saddles, hay, and lanterns.

On May 3, Tri Delta bid the social season farewell with their annual Spring Formal in the Student Union.

The official publications are The Trireme, The Triglyph, and The Trident. Three endowment funds, the National, the Trident, and the Visiting Endowment Funds, are used for altruistic purposes among college women.

Mrs. Alice Perrin, housemother, is the much loved and efficient leader in the English buff style house. Mother Perrin is a member of PEO and the Outlook Club, which is composed mainly of faculty members' wives.

An introductory tea for Mother Palmer, the new housemother, started the Anchor girls on the new school year. A faculty reception was held early in the fall. In October the DG pledges launched a series of supper dances for the pledges of the various fraternities, which not only promoted pan-hellenic spirit, but gave everybody concerned a really fine time.

On a moonlight night in October, the Delta Gammas and dates climbed on trucks for a hayride and weiner roast, followed by a barn dance in the gaily decorated game room.

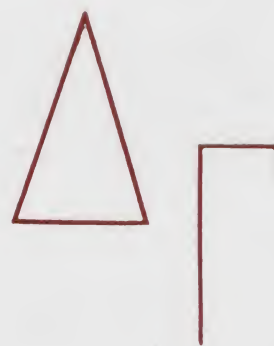

The highlight of the season was the Christmas Formal in the usual place. After the dance, the traditional breakfast was held at the chapter house for girls and dates.

Not to be ignored are the pledge walkouts, which resulted in jail for the culprits who had a good time anyway, and headaches for the initiates.

Truly a feather in the cap of Delta Gamma is Becky Luke, who reigned as "Miss Texas" at the Texas-Arkansas football game, and she was also chosen by Kay Kyser for one of the four RAZORBACK beauties. Becky is also active in Orchesis, WAA, and Rootin' Rubes.

Anita Paz and Jackie Dobbs are notables in Delta Gamma. The former served on the Judicial Board of the University and on AWS Executive Board as Chairman of the House Officers Council. Jackie holds the position of business manager of the 1946 RAZORBACK and acted as the assistant editor of the Coed's Code. She is secretary of the Arkansas Forensic Club, a member of Blackfriars and of the Press Club.

Delta Gamma's national philanthropy is aid to the blind and sight conservation. Originators of the Seeing Eye Dog Project in the United States, Delta Gamma's 30,000 members maintain 75 sight clinics throughout the country.

Two war orphanages, one in Belgium and one in Holland, are supported by the fraternity. Delta Gamma also provides a $60,000 student loan fund to assist worthwhile under-graduates in colleges all over the United States.

The official publication of Delta Gamma is The Anchora, and the flower is the cream-colored rose. The colors are bronze, pink, and blue.

The buff brick house with large white pillars is the home of Alpha Omega chapter of Delta Gamma. Delta Gamma was founded at the University of Mississippi in 1874. It was the first fraternity for women to be founded in the South. Alpha Omega chapter was installed on the University of Arkansas campus in 1930.

Alpha Omega steams ahead under the capable piloting of president Martha Belle Johnson, who is also secretary of Pan-Hellenic and a member of Boots and Spurs.

Kappa Kappa Gamma is the second oldest sorority in the United States, having been founded at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois, in 1870. The 75th Founders Day was celebrated last October. Gamma Nu was installed on the Arkansas campus on April 16, 1925.

Gamma Nu began the year by winning first place in Homecoming floats and second place on outside decorations. The football game was followed by the annual buffet dinner.

During the winter months the pledges became leaders in interfraternity spirit on the campus by being hostesses to each fraternity pledge class for a Friday afternoon "Traveling Dance". The pledges even boosted the actives' spirits frequently with after-date parties.

Just before school adjourned, to take a breath before 1946, Kappa gave a dinner-dance in the chapter house, complete with wonderful food and the Varsity Club.

The KKG girls had their share of BWOC. Shirley Jones and Mary Ella Crook were selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Shirley is also president of Mortar Board, and Mary Ella, until the time of her graduation at mid-term, was president of AWS. Martha McCrary is president of Pan-Hellenic and prexy of Kappa.

Audrea Yoe was president of Kappa Pi, honorary art society. Dotty Bumpers Patridge presided over YWCA. Patty Bliss was chosen as the delegate to Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education society's national convention in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Betty Tracy was editor of the Guild Ticker, and Jonnie Garner efficiently filled the assistant editorship of The Traveler.

Kappa also had football royalty. Elizabeth Alexander, Jimmie Garner, and Jean Stevenson were maids to Miss Arkansas, and Bonnie Taylor and Freddie Shafer served as maids to Homecoming Queen.

The Kappas tried to spread their share of Christmas cheer by singing at the Veterans Hospital. Then they had a really super dinner-dance and finished the night by serenading the fraternity houses with Christmas carols.

One of the highlights of the season was the arrival of Donald Dickson, baritone, and his accompanist, Lawrence Stevens. After his concert he came over to visit and entertain the KKG girls. At this point we do not mention a bet.

The blue-and-blue girls maintained plenty of romance. Eleven girls were pinned, eight engaged, and four married, and Cupid is still at work!

All the Kappas owe their success to the house-mother, Mrs. S. H. Rainey, or "Momie", as she is affectionately called by her loyal girls.

The official publications of Kappa Kappa Gamma are The Key and The Hoot.

When the Pi Phis came back to school in the fall, they found that Arkansas Alpha had tied with California Delta at UCLA in winning the Balfour Cup, which is presented each year to the most outstanding chapter of Pi Beta Phi in the United States and Canada.

Pi Phi gave a sweater hop in the Union for pledges, followed by dinner in the house. In November, Miss Margaret Jacoway, visiting province president, was honored with a faculty reception.

Saturday afternoon parties were given for the different fraternities, featuring a huge Varga calendar. December activities included gifts exchanged in the house, the candlelight serenade, and the beautiful Christmas Formal, December 14. Following the dance a breakfast was held at the house, and Swan "Santa Claus" Swindle distributed favors to dates.

Open houses were held after all the football games, including one particularly for the football boys. Petite Joy Lee Kirkpatrick reigned as Homecoming Queen.

Before the Tony Pastor dance the arrow girls invited their dates for southern fried chicken in the chapter house. In February a series of open houses were given for all the fraternities.

In April the Pi Phi spring formal was held in the Union. A house party was given for rushees. The last of April the annual Founders Day Banquet was held at the Washington Hotel. In May, Mrs. J. K. Gregory gave the annual Senior Picnic in her garden.

Mother Clifton, an Indiana Pi Phi, has looked after the girls in the most loving way for nine years.

Romance flowered at Arrow Lodge during the year. Pinned were: Jane Ann Pugh, George Pine, Sigma Chi; Betty Meadows, Sam Atkinson, Sig Alph; Betty Lou Rhodes, Stan Wood, Sigma Chi; Betty Bunch, Bud Gourman, Kappa Sig; Carolyn Van Ness, Steele Hays, Sigma Chi; Patsy Campbell, Bob Dyess, Kappa Sig; M. V. Oldham, Bob McFarland, Sigma Chi; Patty Sue Thomas, Jack East, Sig Alph; Patti Purl, Charles Crockett, Sig Alph; and Louise Douglass, Rex Pearce, Kappa Sig. Jean Pitcock became engaged to Burt Madison, Sigma Chi; Betty Lou Pipkin to J. W. Simmons; and Ann Anderson to R. J. ZoZrn. Jane Inman married Max Marsh.

Big dogs include Jean Pitcock, who was Pi Phi prexy, AWS, YWCA, Mortar Board, WAA, Commerce Guild, Traveler staff, Pan-Hell, Student Senate, and cheerleader. Betty Gary is 1946 RAZORBACK editor, AWS, YWCA, Mortar Board, WAA, and Commerce Guild. Shirley Hawthorn Ward was AWS, YWCA, ADA, Alpha Lambda Delta, Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Home Ec Club. Betty Jo Oglesby is also a member of Mortar Board.

Pi Beta Phi was founded at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois, April 28, 1867. Arkansas Alpha was organized in 1909. The colors are wine and blue, and the flower is the wine carnation.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

Pan-Hellenic Council is the organization on the University of Arkansas campus which keeps the fairer sex from slitting each other's throats. Two girls from each national social sorority make up the council. One of the two girls is the sorority president and the other is a representative elected by the sorority. Meetings are held in the Union twice a month to discuss rules and regulations in a peaceful way instead of letting sororities chew each other up.

Rushing in September was strictly a mob affair. Hundreds of girls arrived on the campus with their smoothest clothes and an air of expectancy. Sorority girls milled in the train station and politely glared at each other, each wondering whom the other had come down to see. Dean Scudder kept a watchful eye on the proceedings to see that no girls broke the silence rule. The quota for the fall of 1945 was 40 for each house, including town girls, who previously had been on a separate quota. Rush parties were exciting and brought forth many original ideas in the form of programs. Rushees and rushers were fagged out when rush week was finally over. Last minute long waiting was terminated and bids were given out. Girls moved into the houses immediately. That night was closed night for the sororities in order that the girls get to know each other and calmly discuss the events of the week. Some of the sororities pledged 40, some did not.

Rush week in February was a nerve-racking ordeal, because open rush was the style. Girls were rushed at any and all times of the day and night and were pledged as soon as they made up their minds. The quota for each sorority was 4.

Among other questions that Pan-Hellenic settled this year was a new quota. In September the quota will be 25 for each sorority. Another glad bit of news to girls was the banishing of summer rush letters. The usual other rules prevail: no hotboxing, financial extravagance, caravans and summer house parties. Each town is allowed to have two rush parties during the summer.

Every spring Pan-Hellenic holds a retreat at which all the old and new members meet and discuss the part that sororities will play in the career of a college girl. The new girls are instructed in Pan-Hell's work and in plans for success in future years. Also, each spring a pamphlet is published and dedicated lovingly to the rushees. The little book is piled full of rules, regulations, do's, don't's, all of which adds to the general confusion.

Each April Pan-Hellenic sponsors a stunt night. Each sorority and fraternity plans a stunt and presents it to the other Greek letter organizations. Members of the faculty are judges. Last year's event was quite successful, as was this year's. Results are always very surprising and hilarious.

The job of mediator and peace-maker general rotates among the varied sisterhoods in the chronological order of their establishment on the "Hill". Lesser positions are also rotated. Officers are Martha McCrary, Kappa, president; Martha Belle Johnson, Delta Gamma, secretary; Mary Katherine Rose, Chi Omega, treasurer; Jane Thomas, Pi Beta Phi, social chairman; Earline Hill, Delta Delta Delta, Pan-Hell handbook chairman. When the going gets too rough, girls take their wrinkles to Dean Scudder and let her iron them out.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

Inter-Fraternity Council is the boys' national Greek social organization fight-stopper. It corresponds to Pan-Hellenic Council for the girls. The Council is composed of the president and two men from each fraternity. This group meets once every month to straighten out differences and refresh the rules and regulations. The chief aim of this organization is to keep peace among the members of the fraternities. It creates better relationships and understanding of common problems, in addition to raising scholastic standings of fraternities, at least above the limit line of social privileges.

Last September the rush system was revised. Instead of the open rush to which the rushees have been subjected, a careful system of parties and preferentials was installed. Each rushee went to each fraternity house. That was six parties. Then there were two preferential parties and then one preferential party. Bids went out after the last party. Parties lasted four hours and made nervous wrecks out of all concerned.

There were quite a few boys going through the fall free-for-all, but the February rush was like nothing ever seen before. The campus, last year so bare of men, was literally crawling with the welcomed arrival of MEN—tall men, short men, big men, little men, cute men, ugly men, young men, older men, just MEN! Fraternities pledged like mad. There was some difficulty in getting all the pledges places to live, but finally everything was all fixed up. What does it matter if a boy is 6 miles from his fraternity house?

In the fall the big Inter-Fraternity Dance was held in the Student Union. Girls were nominated for queen by the girls in each of the 5 sorority houses. Porter Henslee, Chi Omega, was crowned Inter-Fraternity Queen after the grand march. A gay event of fall, also, was a beer bust sponsored by Inter-Frat for Inter-Frat. Reports are that a big time was had by all.

The highlight of every spring is the Inter-Fraternity Sing, sponsored by the Council. Fraternities and sororities put on their best bibs and tuckers and their most dignified air and trot to the designated place. As the judges listen with a critical ear, the boys and girls warble their tunes. Winners get their sorority and fraternity names on a plaque in the Union.

Business transacted by Inter-Fraternity this year included the changing of a University rule. Pledges formerly had to make a "C" average in 14 hours of college work before they could be initiated. Now the rule reads that the pledges must make a "C" average in 12 hours. This makes it easier all around. Plans were also made for stronger and better inter-fraternity council which will really promote a feeling of brotherhood among the fraternities.

A pamphlet on the technique of being a fraternity member and how to get that way is composed each year and sent to prospects on the rush lists. This little book explains the hows and whys of the University of Arkansas and this and that about fraternities themselves.

Officers of Inter-Fraternity Council are Don Shay, Lambda Chi Alpha, president; Howard Bonds, Sigma Chi, vice-president; Gerald Barnes, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, secretary; and Jimmy Wirtz, Sigma Nu, treasurer.

The boys of the crescent and star gave a dinner-dance in honor of their freshmen in October. It was really a swank affair, but the swankiest of the year was their annual Christmas Formal the night of December 19. The house was beautifully decorated throughout with cedar, pine boughs, and colored lights. On each wall were the Greek letters of the sororities in blue lights. The small parlor was enclosed in black net in which the center chandelier, covered with revolving mirrors, shone over a Christmas shepherd scene. Santa Claus, Al Bailey, distributed gold chain rings to the girls. The third floor was very popular. And besides the festive holiday "spirits", the old Kappa Sig Christmas tradition was revived, to wit: "Eat, drink, kiss your date (and everybody else's), and be merry, for tomorrow you will no doubt have a terrific headache."

February 16 members gave a dinner-dance for the new pledges. In March KayZees and dates headed for the open road on one of their knocked-out hayrides. In April the Spring formal was held.

Kappa Sigma was founded December 10, 1869, at the University of Virginia. Xi chapter was the first fraternity on the University of Arkansas campus, installed here in 1890. Its colors are scarlet, white, and green, and the flower is the lily-of-the-valley.

Mother Driver has been on the campus for many years. It is right and proper that she be the Kappa Sig housemother, for she has two KayZee sons. During the war she kept all the Kappa Sigs in the services posted on the current campus news.

Kappa Sigma also has its share of BMOC. Highest man on this totem pole is Weldon Larimore, who not only was president of Xi chapter, but was prexy of Phi Sigma, vice-president of Omicron Delta Kappa, Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, Alpha Epsilon Delta, Phi Beta Kappa, and Pre-Med Club.

Al Ellis is also a big man in the fraternity. He is prexy of Phi Eta Sigma, Pi Mu Epsilon, and Student Senate. Mike Scroggins, present prexy of Kappa Sigma, is Inter-Fraternity, Student Senate, and YMCA.

In addition to "book larnin'", Kappa Sigs took time out to become pinned to the ladies of their choice: Bill Jett, Peggy Brown, Chio; Weldon Larimore, Glenn E. Livingston, Kappa; Bud Gorman, Betty Bunch, Pi Phi; Walt Stinson, M. V. Reichel, Chio; Al Ellis, Betty Lloyd Leeper, Kappa; Bob Dyess, Patsy Campbell, Pi Phi; Tommy Donoho, Elizabeth Alexander, Kappa; Leo Benson, Patty Wasson, Kappa; and Bill Bassett, Sally Steward, Pi Phi.

Kappa Sigma "national" monthly edits The Star and Crescent, Caduceus, Address Book, Homes, History of Kappa Sigma, The Song Book, and The Kappa Sigma Pledge Book.

Undergoing healthy growing pains as a result of the return this year of many of its members from the services in World War II is Gamma-Chi Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha. Founded at the University of Boston, Boston, Massachusetts, in November, 1909, Lambda Chi Alpha is represented on the University of Arkansas campus by Gamma-Chi Zeta. The chapter was chartered here on November 7, 1923, when members of a local fraternity, Theta Phi Delta, petitioned the national organization of Lambda Chi.

Gamma-Chi Zeta was hard-hit by the war, but it withheld the storm as well as its fellow fraternities, and with the end of the war the chapter began to pledge and expand its membership.

Current sweetheart of the local chapter is Mother Cornwell, who came to the boys in September. She took to "her family" with a will, and is much loved by the lads. Favorite pastime of the local Lambda Chis is keeping up the "bull sessions" after hours. Together with Mother Cornwell, they cuss and discuss the latest campus gossip, politics, women, professors, and what-have-you. Of course, these gatherings would not be complete without gallons of coffee and the singing of favorite songs.

In October all the members and pledges shook the dust of this town from their feet and took out for the traditional Lambda Chi stag party. Thanksgiving was celebrated with a party in the chapter house.

St. Valentine visited the Lambda Chi house in February one Saturday night to entertain the guys and gals at a terrific party, which the girls will not soon forget.

Brightest highlight in the social realm was the annual Black and White Formal held in the Union ballroom on March 23.

Several of the boys have been active in all the various phases of campus life, many claiming membership in Phi Eta Sigma, Theta Tau, Alpha Chi Sigma, ASCE, AIEE, Pi Mu Epsilon, Commerce Guild, and Gamma Iota. "Big Dog", Don Shay, is president of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

President of the local chapter is Dick Burke. Dick, recently returned from service, hails from Hot Springs and is a junior in the College of Engineering. Other officers are O. G. Croom, vice-president; Charles Marak, secretary; and Bob Gregg, treasurer.

The fraternity colors are purple, green, and gold, and the flower is the white rose. Every month the local chapter publishes a news letter entitled Gamma Chi News. National publications are the pledge annual, officers' manual, a booklet entitled "Dynamic Youth", and the official publication, Cross and Crescent.

Faculty members of Lambda Chi on the campus are Dean John Clark Jordan, Dr. D. M. Moore, Professor Orville J. Hall, George Stublefeld, and John Kane.

Pi Kappa Alpha was founded at the University of Virginia in 1868. Until the turn of the century, PiKA was exclusively a deep Southern fraternity. Alpha Zeta chapter was then established on the campus of the University of Arkansas on November 2, 1904. It was the first chapter west of the Mississippi River.

Throughout the war years, PiKA has remained firmly entrenched on the Arkansas campus. PiKA mourns for its members who will never return, having given their lives for their country: Wirt Thompson, Stanley Greathouse, Reginald Stuetgen, John R. Harris, Jack Shell, Kenneth Holder, Bill Greason, Merrill Hinkson, Jim Thomas, Jim Yarborough, Elbert Hiller, John Clark Riley, and John Cassos.

Inspired by Mother Payne, who has been with the local chapter for 16 years and is much loved by "her boys", the garnet and gold lads have completed a very successful year.

With the opening of the school year came another one of those wonderful serenades by the Pikes, who keep the girls breathless. Homecoming was a gala affair at the chapter house on Arkansas Avenue. Many of the old grads returned to renew old acquaintances and make new ones. PiKA racked up first prize for fraternity Homecoming decorations, and first prize for the best fraternity float in the parade.

PiKAs have many members who are on the football and basketball Razorback teams: Charles Jolliff, Mitchell Young, Ken Kearns, Alton Baldwin, Bud Canada, Charles Johnson, Jo Dale Counce, Gordon Galloway, Frank Schumchyk, Tony Byles, and George Kok, the latter of whom is the captain of the basketball team.

Besides really being on the ball, the PiKAs have numerous big dogs among their number. Joe Matlock, Jack Holt, and Mike Schumchyk are members of Blue Key. Joe is also chairman of the Social Committee for the University. Charles Jolliff is president of ABC, president of the Press Club, and vice-president of YMCA.

Marty Measel, vice-president of PiKA in the fall and prexy in the spring, is also prexy of ASME and of the Senior Class, and a member of the Engineering Council.

Jay Barnes, Bob Ison, and Jack Holt got tired of being single and settled down to married life. Charlie Williams and Gayle Puterbaugh, Kappa, became engaged Christmas and are looking forward to June and their wedding. Those leading a steady life are Joe Matlock and Connie Walker, Delta Gamma; Marty Measel and Janice Adams, Chio; Jim Cartwright and Betty Woods, Delta Gamma; and Ken Kearns and Bonnie Taylor, Kappa.

Official publications of PiKA are The History of Pi Kappa Alpha, The Pi Kappa Alpha Directory, and The Shield and Diamond, which is circulated five times a year.

In honor of their new pledges, Sigma Alpha Epsilon members were hosts to a dinner-dance held in the chapter house in the fall. To make it complete, only the pledges had dates, and the members "stagged it". November 17, boys and dates boarded the ever-popular hay wagons and went on a grand and glorious hayride to Lake Wedington.

December 8 was the Christmas Formal in the Student Union. Beautiful engraved programs were given to the girls. A buffet supper and stag party were held in the chapter house preceding the dance. Crested bracelets were given to dates. Also in December, the annual Christmas party for the chapter was held before the holidays.

February 22 was the occasion for a dinner-dance in the house for the new pledges, of whom there were many.

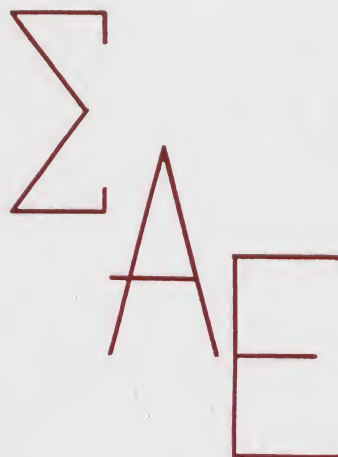

March 2 the annual Founders Day Banquet was held. Another feature of March was the Honky Tonk party, for which the girls spent long hours thinking up costumes. The house was decorated to resemble some of the more notorious gathering places of entertainment.

The Spring Formal was an event of May 11 in the Student Union. And "leave us not forget" the many and varied excursions to the Sig Alph valley for (as they say in French) "short beers".

In the field of intra-murals, Sig Alph took top honors in football and volleyball.

Dan Cupid busily transferred pins to eager females. Pinned were: "Pot" Barnes, Virginia Lee Best, Chio; Sam Atkinson, Betty Meadows, Pi Phi; Louber Hendricks, Norma Rogers, Kappa; Henry Frantz, Earledean Holloway, Davis Hall.

Cupid did more than that. "Pot" and Virginia got married, as did Carl Johnson and Jerry Holder, Chio; and Jim Boyd and Freida Helen Hunt of Fayetteville.

Sig Alphas were honored with a new house-mother, Mrs. W. R. Dortch, from Scott. It's really in her blood, as she has a Sig Alph husband, and her son is a Sig Alph. She has even now endeared herself to those who know her.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded at the University of Alabama on March 9, 1856. Since then, it has grown to become the world's largest social fraternity, with over 55,000 initiated members and a total of 114 chapters.

Alpha Upsilon chapter was organized at the University of Arkansas in 1894. They have lived in their present location for 14 years. The colors of Sigma Alpha Epsilon are purple and gold; the flower is the violet; and these, together with their symbol of Minerva and the lion, signify the honor and prestige of the fraternity.

Official publication is The Record, with a circulation of over 30,000 copies per issue. The Lion Tamer is for alums and parents of active members.

In order to begin well for their pledges, Sigma Chi held a dinner-dance for them soon after school opened in September. October was the date of the annual kid party. Members and dates donned their "shrunked" clothes and turned the house into a toddlers' paradise. Decorations were in the Hallowe'en spirit. Costumes were unique, and Jim Spivey and date, Patty Sue Thomas, Pi Phi, were finally named the prize-winning couple.

The Sigma Chi boys started the Homecoming celebration with one of their never-to-be-forgotten serenades before their sunrise breakfast, followed by a dance in the chapter house before adjourning to the parade.

A welcomed indication of the end of the war was found in the first-of-the-year, strictly formal Christmas dinner-dance to the tunes of the Varsity Club, held in the house just before the holidays. The girls took home crested Sigma Chi bracelets.

February 23 was the Gold Rush Party, which will long be remembered by the lucky ones attending. The party, featuring "gold in them thar hills", attracted attire dated from the days "When You Wore A Tulip". In March, the Sigs held their Spring Formal. The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi was announced at a dance in the Union following a banquet at the Washington Hotel.

The Omega Omega chapter at the University of Arkansas was considered one of the best of Sigma Chi chapters during the war, and since the end of the war it has been recognized as one of the outstanding chapters of the United States. At spring semester Sigma Chi enlarged its chapter by pledging some 30 new boys. Howard Bonds was re-elected to wield the gavel.

A member of the famous Miami Triad, and one of the oldest Greek letter fraternities in existence, Sigma Chi was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, June 28, 1855. The other two members of the Miami Triad are Phi Delta Theta and Beta Theta Pi. Omega Omega chapter was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1905. The colors are blue and gold, and the flower is the white rose.

Sigma Chi publications include The Magazine of Sigma Chi, The Sigma Chi Bulletin, The Sigma Chi Directory, and The History of Sigma Chi. Omega Omega has its own publication, The Arkansas Sig, published every year featuring news of alumni and actives.

Mother Witt has been Sigma Chi housemother for five years. She is very proud of her boys and takes a personal interest in all of them. She is particularly famed for her good food.

Several of the Sigs have their own personal sweethearts of Sigma Chi. Pinned are Stan Wood, Betty Lou Rhodes, Pi Phi; Ned Hastings, Ann Arnold, Kappa; Burt Madison, Jean Pitcock, Pi Phi; Lewis Thompson, Claire Sallee, Chio; Steele Hays, Carolyn Van Ness, Pi Phi; and George Pine, Jane Ann Pugh, Pi Phi.

Sigma Nu was founded January 1, 1869, at Virginia Military Institute and was first known as the Legion of Honor. Gamma Upsilon chapter was founded on the University of Arkansas campus December 15, 1904. In 1945 Sigma Nu proudly announced the fact that it had become 100 chapters strong.

The local boys moved back into their old house at 410 Arkansas Avenue this year to prove that "there's no place like home". They are true to the black, white and gold, and to their flower, the white rose.

Sigma Nu had many hayrides during the year, and speaking of hay, the campus will long remember the famous annual Sigma Nu Sadie Hawkins Day, which the Sigma Nus originated at the University of Arkansas. The dance was held in the Women's Gym. Costumes were really elaborate, and according to the "quails", the dance was strictly a big success. The well-known "Sadie ways about it! In April their always beautiful White Rose Formal was held.

Biggest big dog in Sigma Nu is prexy Rawlins Horlacher, who is also prexy of AXS, treasurer of ODK, AICH, Pi Mu Epsilon, and business manager of the Razorback Directory. He is pinned to Shirley Jones, Kappa.

Bill Meeks is business manager of the Guild Ticker. Jimmy Wirtz is treasurer of the Senior Class, Blue Key, and Inter-Fraternity Council, co-captain of the cheerleaders, and on the Social Committee of the University. Henry Ford is co-captain of the Razorback football team.

The official publications of Sigma Nu are The Delt, quarterly periodical, The Sigma Nu Song Book, and The Story of Sigma Nu, a history of the fraternity.

Mother Pearson came to Gamma Upsilon of Sigma Nu as housemother in September, and already she is much loved by all who know her. Many happy Sundays have been spent chatting with her and eating those delicious meals for which she is noted.

As was the case with all the fraternities, Sigma Nu sent many boys off to war, but now the boys are coming back to further strengthen the chapter.

Nathan Gordon, former University student and Sigma Nu, distinguished himself by meritorious action for the United States Navy in World War II.

Sigma Nu is represented in all scholastic and social organizations on the campus. This year marks the forty-second year for the Gamma Upsilon chapter.

Theta Tau

Theta Tau was founded on October 15, 1904, at the University of Minnesota. It is a national professional engineering fraternity. Upsilon chapter was chartered at the University of Arkansas on April 7, 1928, and since that date it has increased greatly in size and has been active in affairs of the Engine school, as well as affairs of the entire University.

The organization was first known as "Hammer and Tongs". The Greek name, Theta Tau, was adopted in 1911. The colors are dark red and old gold, and the flower is the Jaqueminot rose. Official publication is The Gear.

Theta Tau's reputation for throwing the biggest and wildest beer busts has been upheld nobly by this year's members. Early in the fall they threw a big one for the new boys, and on February 1 they again honored new pledges. October 15 was the annual Founders Day Banquet at the Blue Mill. Russell Newman was toastmaster. There was much speculation as to whether the Agris should be invited over to open house on Engine Day.

Mother Kate has been with Theta Tau for four years. She was the former Alpha Gamma Rho housemother. Theta Taus are proud of the fact that it took such a short time to convert Mother Kate from an Agri to an Engineer.

Officers are Ray Hedgecock, regent; Russell Newman, vice-regent; Austin Bollen, scribe; Bob Hester, marshall; Paul Jasper, treasurer; James Stutheit, inner guard; and Howard Bonds, outer guard.

Theta Tau has its share of Big Dogs. Russell Newman is ODK and prexy of AIEE. Marty Measel is president of PiKA, ASME, and the Senior Class. Austin Bollen, Pi Mu Epsilon and company commander of ROTC, made a handsome St. Pat. Howard Bonds is president of Sigma Chi, Blue Key, vice-president of ASCE, Inter-Fraternity Council, Students Affairs Committee, and was secretary of Theta Tau.

The Engineering Council, which is composed of twelve members, has five Theta Taus on it: Marty Measel, Austin Bollen, Russell Newman, Jack Vineyard, and Bob Woolfolk.

Upsilon chapter is very proud of three of its alums. Bob Duncan, Harold LaDue, Jr., and Stan Johnson went to Oak Ridge, Tennessee, last spring to do secret work on the atomic bomb.

Theta Tau was founded to promote high professional standards and to foster close fraternal relations among its members. Its scholastic standards are high, although it is not an honorary and there is no expressed grade point requirement for membership. A prospective member must have an above average grade point.

Since scholarship is stressed, this is perhaps the reason for Theta Tau's leadership of fraternity grades on the Arkansas campus for the last two years.

CARNALL HALL

OFFICERS

HELEN GAY MARSH	President
MARY JEAN CAMPBELL	Vice-President
DOROTHY LANDERS	Secretary
WILMA DOUGLAS	Treasurer

Carnall started this year all hopped up because they had the feeling that things were going to be different. With all the veterans enrolling, all the activities coming into new life, and everything turning into full time speed, things couldn't help but be different. It took Carnall Hall just one look to see that, and they started out with one big bang by inviting all the men on the campus in for one of their famous open houses. For the first time in years the house was really open. Their guests were escorted throughout the house—for once they were above first floor. Needless to say it was a bang-up success. They came early and stayed late. Carnall Hall kept up to par on another point, too. They boast that some of the most hilarious and enjoyable pajama parties come from Carnall Hall way. Helen Gay Marsh kept all the little girls going like mad preparing for all these occasions, and it is obvious that they took part and liked it. They really went all-out for Homecoming. A miniature football field with the Razorbacks outscoring the visiting Cadets something pitiful, was definitely a work of art. Enamelled leaves and pine cones did their bit for gracing up the rest of the house.

Mother Barnes was, as she has been for the past fourteen years, always around acting like a disciplinarian, but being so nice that everyone just loved it.

Carnall Hall took in its share of honors on the campus this year. Sara Aldridge was vice-president of the Associated Students and a big wheel in about a jillion different organizations. Wilma Douglas held down the job as editor of the Arkansas Traveler. Both girls were listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities". Two queens, Agri and Engineering, graced the halls of Carnall. Dorothy Price was Carnall's choice for Agri Royalty, and Betty Alexander took over for a few hours of reigning as St. Patricia on Engineering day. Ruth Belt was elected sophomore class vice-president, and Patricia Dampf served as senator of the freshman class. Every time there was honor available, some Carnall Hall lass had her finger in the big middle of the pie, and whether winning or losing, it made no difference.

Carnall Hall, composed of 115 girls, came out near the top in scholastic grade averages. They were third among girls' organized houses. Several of the freshmen women were named to Alpha Lambda Delta, and many others received membership in practically every honorary society that exists on the campus.

Activities were always sprinkled with a good bit of study, but it's hard to keep a lively bunch buried in Shakespeare and Greek. They liked the old boys well enough, but let the Navy come in after the game without top Razorback basketballers. The boys from the Memphis base did not seem to particularly mind the ratio of 15:1. In fact, it might be said that from appearances, they loved it. Thoughtful girls that they are, they had managed to have Yuletide spirit in the form of holly and mistletoe hung around quite conveniently.

The second semester was just a lot better and a lot more of the first semester. The first flair was in the form of a sweater hop, and it was such fun that they wanted to make it a weekly affair. The spring formal held in the Student Union ballroom was just as everyone thought it would be—simply swell. All the entertaining wasn't for the female faction of the campus. Several girls from Davis Hall accepted exchange invitations for one evening and brought about some good friendships among the two houses. Faculty guests were entertained on various occasions, and no one seems to be able to forget the spring picnic for the girls in the house.

The girls organized sports teams coming and going. They did not always win, but they put up a stiff fight, and no one can argue with the fact that they had just as much fun as anyone did when they took their drubbings at the hands of better teams. The girls always felt they were best even though they did not win.

A system was inaugurated for honoring all those whose birthday appeared in any particular month. The last Thursday of each month was reserved for this occasion—The Birthday Dinner. Things really took on a festive light, and the candles and cakes were brought in amid lots of good cheer and food.

Their ups and downs were fun. They liked it immensely. Not one of them will soon forget the March night they all sallied forth from their beds at 2:00 a.m. in answer to the roar of the house's fire alarm. They came forth rubbing their eyes and carrying their wardrobes, serious and apprehensive in the face of suffocation, strangulation, or just plain being charred to death. It was a fire. The fire department was called, but the damage was nil. Waste paper in a fire proof incinerator just doesn't cause much of a fire. You couldn't have proved it to them any more thoroughly than they did for themselves.

First row: Alexander, Bartlett, Burnette, Butler, Calhoun, Chipman, Cornelius, Dorsey, Elmore, Evans, Evans, Foreman, Frasier, Gion, Hawkins.
Second row: Holley, Holloway, Houston, Jones, Keefe, Kennett, Kennett, Kinder, King, Knierim, Lambert, Maxwell, May, Mitchell, Mitchell.
Third row: Newkirk, Reder, Reeves, Rife, Ritchie, Roberts, Rucker, Sanders, Sloan, Sutton, Trawick, Weeks, White, Wood, Woodrum.

DAVIS HALL

Social activities at Mary Ann Davis Hall were singularly successful this year. The opening function was a faculty tea introducing their new house director, Miss Dorothy Huminston, who is also director of all women's residence halls. It was followed immediately by an open house for all men on the campus. Huge bonfires, loads of food and plenty of boys on the campus made the weiner roast, held in late October, another grand success. The large living room of Davis Hall was converted into a typical "Toyland" for the Christmas dance held early in December. The faculty tea given in February should certainly be included in the list of successful social events for the year. The girls went all out for a big excursion to Lake Weddington early in the spring; and last, but not least, the annual spring formal was the grand climax of the social year.

Davis Hall continued to live up to its song beginning "Beauty we have plenty of", when Ann Weeks, senior education major from Dumas, was selected one of the four RAZORBACK beauties. This was the second consecutive year for Davis to have one of the campus beauties; Mary Beth Dorsey was chosen in 1945's selection.

There is a superstition fast arising about the south-east corner room of third floor. Every girl who has ever lived in that room became engaged or married while there, and all are married now. Of this year's residents, Juanice Smith was the first bride of the year, and is now Mrs. Stephen Alexander. Her roommate, Carrie Lou Kinder, was married to Ed Stelzner early in January.

Wedding bells also rang for Betty Ritchie and Albert Anderson; and Montez Elmore and Arlie Pierce. The many pins and rings indicate that there will probably be others "exchanging vows" soon, too.

The Baker House, located at 326 Rollston Avenue, was organized in the fall of 1943. The house is owned and managed by Mrs. C. A. Baker. It is one of the youngest organized houses on the campus.

The athletic department is well represented at the Baker House, having both members of the football and basketball teams living there. Several of these boys are lettermen.

The Baker House also has its share of the veterans who have returned to school. All branches of the service are well represented among these veterans.

GIRL'S 4-H HOUSE

The Girl's Four-H House has the distinction of being the first house of its kind organized in the United States, and the first cooperative house on the campus. It is a member of the Central League of Campus Coops, an organ of the National Consumer's Cooperative Association.

The girls had a full social calendar this year, starting off with a bang with a drop-in and sweater hop after the first football game. Open house was held Homecoming to welcome all the alumni. The annual formal Christmas dinner climaxed the Pollyanna week, which was celebrated a week before Christmas holidays. The girls drew names for the "Pollys", and did a good deed for that person anonymously for a week. The "Pollys" were all revealed then by a gift at the Christmas dinner. For their annual formal, they went all out patriotic on Washington's birthday.

Many socials were held throughout the year, but the most exciting event of the year was Ruth Witt's and Robert Hendricks' wedding in the living room of the house early in March. Cupid was prolific in his attacks on the house this year, for two other girls have added a Mrs. to their names—Betty Sager is now Mrs. Duane Bender and Catherine Boone is now Mrs. Harry Douglas. Neoma Lyon is wearing a sparkler, third finger, left hand, which testifies that she will not be a Miss very much longer.

The 4-H House has some outstanding members this year. Lola Hardaway, Mildred Cash, and Eugene Davenport are members of Phi Upsilon Omicron, honorary Home Economics fraternity; Martha Patterson is a member of Lambda Tau, honorary women's English fraternity; and Eugene Davenport also serves as editor of the Agriculturist.

The girls are proud to have the most experienced housemother on the campus, Mrs. Caswell MacRae. Mother MacRae has been on the campus for twenty-three years. This is her seventh year with the 4-H girls.

OAKLAND HALL

Oakland Hall has completed its second successful year as an organized residence hall this year under the leadership of President Margaret Greig.

Oakland had no elaborate entertainments during the year, but the many pajama parties proved equal compensation for this. Among the most outstanding parties the girls had were their Halloween and Christmas parties. It was out of one of their many night sessions during the first semester that the Oakland Sextet originated, composed of Myra Walls, Ernestine Gipson, Jane Cook, Ladene Wilmont, Jerry Windham, and Mary Ellen Philpot. They had to have replacements for the second semester, since three of their girls were leaving. The patients at the Veterans Hospital especially enjoyed the songs of the group.

Cupid played a good hand in Oakland during the first semester when two of the girls became engaged. Kathleen Farrow left after the first semester to meet her sailor fiance, and Mildred "Sally"

Burkholder's wedding is to be in June.

Two of the girls, Kathleen Farrow and Mary Ellen Philpot, journeyed to Little Rock for the football game to be maids to "Miss Texas". During Homecoming weekend two other Oakland Hall lasses, Betty Frizzell and Charlotte Sparkman, were chosen by the football boys to be maids for "Miss Texas".

Oakland could never have had such a successful year without the guidance of Mrs. Mary Sue Williams, their house-director. Although Mrs. Williams was a full-time student, completing her work on her bachelor's degree in English education, she still found time to devote to the girls.

The second semester there were ten new girls living in the hall. They were: Aloyise Ferguson, Carol Scheon, Robbie Partain, Elsie Hathaway, Marianne Mathews, Billie Churchill, Marjorie Sharp, Pat Kimberling, Savelle Hackett, and Betty Joe Kimes.

With the big boom in enrollment at the beginning of the spring semester, Razorback Hall was filled to capacity. One hundred thirty-five boys made it their home, with over three hundred eating in the cafeteria daily. "Ma" Pierce managed the situation very nicely, though, until the cafeteria could be opened at Veteran's Village.

The Razorback Hall boys are always very active in all the sports on the campus, and this year was certainly no exception. James Ralph Smith, Henry DeSalvo, Buck Forsythe, John Hoffman, and Jake Baldwin were all outstanding football players. The Razorback boys not only shined in football but in basketball and intramurals as well.

To open their social calendar for the year, the boys and their dates enjoyed a big Bar-B-Q in the Sig Alph valley late in the fall. The big event of the year was their dance which was held late in the spring.

When the Opposition Party reorganized early in the spring, Ed Marcum, former president and also house manager of Razorback Hall, was elected chairman of the new party, the Progressive Party. The Razorback boys always get in and pitch when it comes to politics.

James Ralph Smith, a sophomore in Arts and Sciences and a member of the football squad, was elected president for the coming year.

Lorene Applewhite, Lee McKnight and Betty Jane Sheppard give that last little dash of perfume before the heavy dates.

Men of the campus discuss the advisability of laying siege to the bookstore to get some books.

In a cozy nook of the Tri Delt living room the girls entertain dates.

The girls now talk this bookstore situation over. Gloria Matthews and Connie Wanasek don't seem particularly worried.

Razorback Hall session is led by one Charles Howard and pipe.

Dick Adamson and Pat Glazner were caught with several others in the act of attending a convocation.

It looks like Carl Johnson has Cecil Lowe against the wall about something. Women? Politics?

Quiet, please! Sonny Keller is giving his all to this chess game in the Union.

The Sigma Nus entertaining with their annual version of Sadie Hawkins' Day. From appearances the fellers were kind of rough on this headless character carrying crutches in the upper right.

Coach John Barnhill being greeted by numerous "wheels" on his arrival at the U. of A. H. L. Thomas looks as though he's doing a bit of coaching from the sideline here.

"Hank" Frantz and Erladean Holloway catching up on a bit of intellect—that grin does look suspicious though, does it not?

J. P. Bird, Bill Evans, Parson Flynt, Ken Kearnes, and a faceless buddy deeply engrossed in the weekly blast.

Jack McNeil, Glen E. Livingston, Weldon Larimore, and Dick Kendrick discussing the trials and tribulations of a hard day over a spot of java.

Dr. Porter, girls, and numerous test tubes. Eager is even more descriptive.

Lura McKenzie and Phyllis Barker pose briefly while trying to decide whether to make their appearance at the religious convocation or to take time out for a short coke.

Swindle turns on the wolf grin while gazing upon an Orchesis practice. Other Sigma Chi brothers are likewise getting their "enjoys" from the show.

THE 1946 RAZORBACK

The RAZORBACK staff has endeavored to give the student body a book that portrays their life at the University for the school year 1945-46. It is their hope that in later years, the RAZORBACK will bring back memories of an eventful year.

The RAZORBACK is somewhat larger this year due to the fact that the war is over. It is not as large, however, as it would have been if we had known that there would be such a "boom" enrollment, but the plans for the book were made at the first of the year before it was realized the enrollment would be so large.

As usual the headaches went right along with the making of the RAZORBACK, but as time went along these were straightened out. We were very fortunate when Mr. Ed Puska put in his appearance. He was with a photographic unit in the army and was responsible for many of our views of the campus and full-page pictures.

We wish to extend appreciation to Mr. Joseph Thalheimer for his advice and helpful assistance on the book.

The manner in which the beauties were presented this year was changed by giving each beauty two full pages. Each beauty was sponsored by a store and pictured in an ensemble from that store.

Business manager Dobbs did a beautiful piece of work on the advertisements this year, selling way over the amount that was necessary. She is the one largely responsible for presenting the beauties as they were this year.

Credit for making the RAZORBACK what it is should also be given to Mr. R. C. Walker and Mrs. Paul E. Yard of the Southwestern Engraving Company. Their many years of experience with yearbooks such as ours aided us no end.

Mr. Bunn Bell was always around to encourage and give useful advice on our business dealings. Whenever we ran into what we thought an utterly impossible situation, he always took an optimistic attitude, encouraged us, and everything worked out beautifully.

Whether or not the 1946 RAZORBACK is a success will only be determined in the future. Here it is—it is your yearbook, and we hope it is one that you can turn to in later years, during a few leisure minutes, and come back to your old college year of 1945-46.

THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER

The members of the Traveler staff felt as if they had just knocked a home run at a World Series game when on the morning of February 8 their brain child carried the announcement that from then on you could pick up "ye olde Traveler" on the stands two mornings a week. The resumption of twice weekly publication was the surest way they knew to get things back to normal—and it seems that it worked; because if ever a campus broke its neck trying to get back to pre-war activities, the University of Arkansas did.

Big stories came thick and fast this year. Presidents resign, football coaches have to be appointed, students petition the Board of Trustees, new clubs are formed, old frats reorganized, and a deluge of news kept the typewriters buzzing away merrily at most any time of any day.

Early in the year someone reclaimed the nickelodeon from the Traveler office—so they considered it—and took the next best thing—accompaniment from the music room just two doors down. Maybe you think Chopin, Bach, and Beethoven were not inspiration to the already inspired Arkansas journalists.

The Traveler started out "as was" with nothing sensational, but endeavoring to represent the students as they wished to be. Athletics, scholarship, extra-curricular activities, and student gripes were given the same attention by the "mob" that took off occasional leisure hours to influence student opinion and occasionally cram a little criticism or praise at some person or organizations they deemed deserving. This "mob" referred to itself as the staff, and was all but tossed from the University on occasions when they happened to recall that some group had a reception in three lines, while their erstwhile neighbors had one just a little bit better and only got two lines.

They listened to complaints for hours at a time, but were not the ones who "rarely had a chance to make any complaints themselves". The Traveler took a belligerent attitude on several occasions and tried to stimulate a little action from several committees, and aimed a few low blows at local business people as well.

The Traveler adopted student drawn cartoons as a regular feature, and devoted a full page to sports in order that students could be storing up spirit for next year's games.

The office was a regular riot when the big days that called for special edition arrived, but when their work was evidenced, no one regretted the riot too much.

THE AGRICULTURIST

The Agriculturist, official publication of the College of Agriculture, is one of the publications that is pounded out on "Publications Row" in the Student Union. This twenty-page magazine is a monthly and has marked its twenty-second year of life this spring.

Last year the editorial side of the magazine was under the management of a strictly feminine agri, but this year the boys made a better showing and contributed their efforts and talents not only to the business end but also to the writing side as well.

Both the heads of the editorial and business departments were outstanding in Agri school. Eugene Davenport was editor-in-chief, and James Foreman acted as business manager this year.

The Agriculturist comes out once a month, publishing articles and feature material of interest and guidance to Agri and Home Ec students. Dean W. R. Horlacher writes an open letter for each issue on some timely subject that is applicable to the Agri students. The magazine also contains reports on clubs in the College of Agriculture, reports on soil testing laboratories, Agri students' personalities on parade, and other reports on the varied activities of the college.

One of the most popular pages is "Grunts and Squeals", a joke page which includes all the chuckles currently circulating through the halls of the Home Ec and Agriculture buildings.

Betty Lamp, strictly a woman's page, was written this year by Jo Anne Sears. This page was usually devoted to short items of interest for Home Ec students and news about the Home Ec Club.

Two outstanding articles published this year were "Mr. Wiley Tells of His Army Experience Overseas" by Mike Scroggins, and "Exit the Man With the Hoe" by Melvin Tucker. One of the most amusing pages of the year was in the December issue when a page was given to "Dear Santa", written by the various Agri students.

Naturally, one of the biggest and most important issues of the year was the Agri Day edition, which was printed in the traditional bright pink. This issue contained histories of organizations in the Agri College and Agri Day news. Also, the pictures of the queen of the College of Agriculture and those chosen for Who's Who in the College of Agriculture, which is based on scholastic and leadership records, were printed in this issue.

The Agriculturist is financed by both national and local ads plus a proportion of ADA dues, which is turned over to the publication.

THE GUILD TICKER

The official publication of the College of Business Administration, The Guild Ticker, came out in all its glory, May 10. This was the ninth edition. The publication was started in 1937, and was printed twice a year until the beginning of the war, then it was changed to an annual publication. Now the Ticker is distributed once a year on Commerce Day.

As this issue came out on Commerce Day, it contained a full account of the day's schedule starting with the convocation in the morning, a bar-B-Q at Lake Wedington in the afternoon, a banquet for the Commerce Guild executive council, speaker, faculty, Ticker staff, and guests, and the crowning of the queen at the yearly dance that night. This was the first dance that the business college has had in the last three years, due to the "man-power" shortage during the war. This was really a "play day" for the future "white collar" gals and fellows of Business Administration.

The general layout was not changed, but some new features were added. The four most outstanding articles included in this edition were: "A G.I. Looks at the French Franc", by Conrad Pugh, a veteran who was in France during the war; "Arkansas Banking", by Ed Penick; "Raw Materials Production and Industrial Trends in Arkansas", by O. G. Croom; and "What Kind of a Job Do You Want?" by Doris Cook. This last article was on the Placement Committee of the College of Business Administration, which helps graduates secure positions. Perhaps the most popular page was "Ticker Ticklers", but still "Seniors Who's Who" held its own on the interest scale. Then too, there was the "Commerce Queen", and "The Dean's Pen" written by Dean Paul Milam.

Heading this year's staff were editor Betty Tracy of Little Rock and business manager Bill Meeks, also of Little Rock. Tracy was a regular worry-bird about the copy being too short, too long, too late, and the cuts not meeting the press deadline. Poor Bill Meeks practically worried himself gray before the out-of-town advertising started coming in, but he soon discovered that Arkansas business men were good advertisers. The associate editors were: Betty Bowen, Doris Cook, and Sara Ann Grayston, and the associate business managers were: Bob Cutting, Carolyn Clark, and John Thomas. Tracy and Meeks both declared that they would have been worse off than a fish in a dry pond without them.

Key charms were awarded to the two outstanding members of the staff. These were presented at the convocation and recipients were editor Betty Tracy and business manager Bill Meeks.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA

Food takes on a new and different flavor when it is cooked by a chemist in the laboratory at an Alpha Chi Sigma lab banquet. Mothers, wives, dates, and stomachs all groan at the sight of the terrible concoctions. Bread is heated in the drying oven, meat is cooked over Fisher burners, beakers become glasses, watch glasses, salad dishes, and burettes, pitchers, and coffee is brewed in a large gallon flask rigged up by a hair-brained chemical engineer.

Alpha Sigma chapter opened its year's social activities with a smoker at the home of Dr. Wertheim. Apples were consumed in great quantities; smokes were in abundance but seldom used; chemical games and a long bull session provided the entertainment. A second smoker was held at the home of the Master Alchemist at the beginning of the second semester.

Alpha Chi Sigma makes an award each year of a year's membership in the American Chemical Society to the outstanding senior in chemistry or chemical engineering. The local chapter also conducts a test at the close of each year to determine the outstanding freshman chemistry student, who is awarded a chemistry handbook.

Chemistry tutoring classes were again conducted by Alpha Chi Sigma in an effort to especially help freshman chemistry students.

The annual Founder's Day Banquet was held April 13th at the Campus Grill. The girls were given miniature wash bottles for favors, and the boys became their dates' property by virtue of their check out slip place cards.

Alpha Chi Sigma strives for the advancement of chemistry both as a science and as a profession, and for the assistance of its members in the attainment of their ambition as chemists.

Alpha Chi Sigma suffered a great loss early in the school year by the death of Dr. Walter S. Dyer, its faculty advisor. Dr. Dyer had always been an ardent pusher of the fraternity and was deeply interested in the welfare and problems of students.

Alpha Lambda Delta is an organization of freshman women whose purpose is to promote intelligent living and a high standard of learning and to encourage superior scholastic attainment among freshman women.

To be eligible for initiation, a freshman must be in residence at the institution where the chapter is located and must be carrying an average number of hours. If a student works and takes less than the average number of hours, she may be eligible upon a set schedule of academic hours plus work hours. The scholastic average required for initiation is exactly half way between the two highest grades given by an institution, which, here at the University, is a five point. Scholastic eligibility is attained on the grades of the first semester or the entire freshman year. A woman remains active until her junior year.

Alpha Lambda Delta was founded at the University of Illinois in the spring of 1924 by Dean Maria Leonard, Dean of Women of the University of Illinois. The organization has grown rapidly and now has forty-seven chapters over the United States. The chapter at the University of Arkansas was installed in 1942 by Dean Alice Lloyd, Dean of Women of the University of Michigan. Since then, fifty-five girls have been initiated into the University of Arkansas chapter.

Senior awards are given each year to the Alpha Lambda Delta collegiate alumnae who have maintained a five point average throughout their entire college life.

In the latter part of September a tea was given by Alpha Lambda Delta for the freshman women who made exceptionally high scores on their entrance examinations. There were thirty-four of these girls invited to the tea. A short talk was made by the president, Mary Martha Hosford, telling the women about Alpha Lambda Delta. The historian, Jean Chipman, gave the history of the chapter.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA

Alpha Epsilon Delta is the honorary Pre-Medical fraternity on the campus under the capable leadership of Irvin Rothrock, with Dr. Samuel C. Dellinger, professor of Zoology, as advisor.

AED is a national organization having many chapters in the country in outstanding schools. Arkansas's Alpha chapter was organized January 8, 1938.

Requirements for membership are that each member take a pre-med course and have an accumulative grade point of a three point, with a four point average in pre-medical work.

The meetings are held every Thursday afternoon at five p.m. in the Chemistry building. These meetings are to promote open discussions and addresses on medical problems and medical research. Discussions are further carried on at the dinners held once a month at the Washington Hotel with two members giving "papers" in regard to medicine and the future work of medical affairs.

The fraternity tries in every possible way to help local conditions and assist in any campus problems arising which pertain to health or medicine.

Honorary members of Alpha Epsilon Delta are Dean Byron T. Robinson of the University of Arkansas Medical School in Little Rock; Dr. Delbert Schwartz, professor of Botany and Bacteriology; and Dr. Harrison Hale, former head of the Chemistry Department.

Members of AED are Ruth Gustafson, Martha Washington, Edward Gossett, Jane Lee Bankson, Irvin Rothrock, Stanley Deckoff, Sarah Sue Henson, Weldon Larimore, Mary Evelyn Williams, Beryl Harberg, Franklin Harberg, and Herbert Klemme.

Kappa Delta Pi is an honor society in education founded at the University of Illinois in 1911. Its purpose is "to encourage high intellectual and scholastic standards and to recognize outstanding contributions to education."

"To this end it shall invite to membership such persons as exhibit commendable personal qualities, worthy educational ideals, and sound scholarship. It shall endeavor to maintain a high degree of professional growth by honoring achievement in educational work."

At present there are over a hundred chapters of this organization in the various universities and teacher training colleges in the United States. In this state many of the outstanding educators are members.

Alpha Beta chapter was installed on this campus February 19, 1924, and since that time more than five hundred students and faculty members have been initiated.

Every year Kappa Delta Pi gives a scholarship award of $25 to an outstanding student in the College of Education.

BLUE KEY

Blue Key National Honor Fraternity was established at the University of Florida in 1926. It is a nation-wide organization, with seventy-six chapters from coast to coast, and from North Dakota to Louisiana.

The University of Arkansas Chapter was established in 1929 as the forty-second chapter, being the successor of a previous organization called The Marble Arch, of which Senator W. J. Fulbright was a charter member. Marble Arch was founded by Dean John Clark Jordan, Dean of the Graduate School. When Blue Key became a national organization, Dean Jordan became and has remained the national president. He is the sponsor of the local chapter.

The purpose of Blue Key is to recognize and honor outstanding leaders in campus life, men who by their thoughts and actions have made significant contributions to the institutions of which they are a part. Although Blue Key is not primarily a scholarship fraternity, it does emphasize scholarship in its national requirement that candidates must have an average above the all men's average. It is not uncommon for the scholastic average of Blue Key men to be above four points.

The Arkansas Chapter has made a notable contribution in its heroes. Out of this one group have come three holders of the Congressional Medal of Honor: Maurice Britt, Nathan Gordon, and Harold Lloyd.

The discharge of veterans has brought back many previous members of this chapter. One of these men, Louis Ramsay, has replaced Walter Keller as president for the second semester. James E. Wirtz is secretary-treasurer.

Meetings are usually held as supper meetings, when the men get together for an informal supper, with a speaker invited to present some subject of local or national interest.

Perhaps the outstanding achievement of this chapter is that it initiated the movement that eventually led to the building of the Field House.

Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Pi began the year saddened by the death of Captain Beverly Hays, who was Alpha Delta's first president and the one chiefly responsible for the installation of the chapter. Captain Hays was killed in action while leading his company in France early in 1945.

One of the outstanding art projects carried out by art students in recent years has been the painting of murals in the fountain room in the Student Union. Kappa Pi members who were active in this project are: Mary Ellen Randolph, Betty Hendrick, Mona DeWees, Mary Anna Jones, and Martha Jane Gittinger. The painting was done under the direction of Professor Hudson. Mary Ellen Randolph did the major part of the painting of this mural which utilizes incidents in the early history of Arkansas. Campus visitors from schools in other states have been highly complimentary in regard to the mural project.

Kappa Pi sponsored one exhibition during the year and sponsored teas at two other major art exhibitions held on the campus.

Art materials were collected by the chapter and sent to the students of an art academy reopened this year in Rotterdam, Holland. Art books and supplies were given to the local Boys' Club.

Plans were made for an annual cash prize to be paid in art supplies through the University Bookstore as an award to the year's outstanding art student. An excursion to an art museum in this section has been a project planned for late spring.

During the year the University created a Division of Fine and Applied Arts, of which the Department of Art is a part. These developments, along with increasing enrollment, lead Kappa Pi to feel that it stands on the threshold of a new era of service and opportunity.

Virginia Hereford, a new member of the art faculty, was elected to serve as co-sponsor, along with Professor Ralph Hudson.

LAMBDA TAU

Lambda Tau, honorary fraternity for English students, was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and the local organization was established in 1913 by Miss Jobelle Holcombe, professor of English.

The purpose of the organization is to foster an interest in the composition and appreciation of literature, and to establish closer contacts between students and faculty who share this common interest.

Until the spring of 1946, membership was open only to women students whose average grade point in all English courses is at least a four point, and a three point five in all other courses. Possessing such an average is not the only requirement for admission; in addition, the candidate must display a sincere interest in literature and its creation. This year membership was extended to all men students who fulfilled the above requirements.

Meetings are held once a month at private homes, usually at the home of Mrs. Jessie O'Kelly, sponsor of the organization. At these meetings students read their own original compositions to the group, and in return receive constructive criticism. Addresses are often made by local individuals prominent in the field of English or in some related field. Faculty members read outstanding literary works to the students and then with the aid of a cup of coffee, the students discuss the pros and cons of the reading. These meetings are not restricted to Lambda Tau members alone, but invitations are extended to students on the campus whose interests are similar to those of Lambda Tau.

Each spring an initiation banquet is held, at which time each new member must present an original composition on any subject in which he or she has an interest. This is the affair looked forward to most of all by members of Lambda Tau, for the topics of these themes are various and sundry, and capture the interest of all who attend.

MORTAR BOARD

Mortar Board, a national honorary organization for senior women, is comparatively new at the University of Arkansas. It emerged in 1940 from Octagon, a group of eight outstanding senior women which was founded on the campus in 1929 with an eventual charter from Mortar Board in view.

Ten women, who met the requirements of scholarship, leadership, and service, were tapped for Mortar Board last year. Six of the ten graduated at mid-term or at the end of the summer session.

Soon after the beginning of the second semester three new members were tapped. These were senior women, eligible for Mortar Board membership, who would graduate too soon to be active in next year's chapter. It was initiation week at the Tri Delta House and the entire sorority, dressed in white formals, looked on as the mortar board was clapped on Paula Oliver. Helen White was at the Chio House and her mother was there. Dotty Bumpers Patridge was celebrating her birthday at the Kappa House.

At the A.W.S. orientation party for new students Mortar Board sponsored a skit which introduced the various campus activities.

Mortar Board shared in the festivities of Homecoming by welcoming alumnae and members of Octagon at a breakfast.

Alleviating the shortage of entertainment for the students became the interest of Mortar Board. This resulted in a poll investigating student opinion on the local theater situation.

Forty members of last year's freshman class were selected by Mortar Board to become Sophomore Councilors for the incoming freshmen, and a training program for the councilors was conducted.

Mortar Board is the only organization on the campus which recognizes outstanding senior women. Its advisors are Mrs. D. Y. Holcomb, Mrs. Raymond Dein, and Miss Cecilia Russell.

PHI ALPHA THETA

Phi Alpha Theta, a national honorary history fraternity, was organized on the campus of the University of Arkansas on March 14, 1921. The chapter flourished, with other chapters being organized at other state universities. The fraternity became inactive in 1931, and it was not revived until ten years later in 1941 by a group of students. The organization has grown and expanded and now has many members both on the faculty and in the student body.

To be eligible for Phi Alpha Theta, a student must be completing or have completed twelve semester hours of history or political science, and have a four point average in the history and a three point average in all other subjects. Initiation is held twice a year.

In December a dinner meeting was held for both pledges and members. Shirley Jones gave a review of the recent book, Woodrow Wilson and the Lost Peace, by Thomas Bailey. Some members had read The United States and the League of Nations, by Flemming, in which the author took the opposite point of view from Mr. Bailey. This stimulated the lively discussion which followed.

The most important and largest activity of Phi Alpha Theta was the regional convention held April 12 and 13 at the University on the 25th anniversary of the founding of the organization. The program began April 12 with an introduction by the president, Charlene Springgate. This was followed by seven twenty-minute programs by various chapters on current historical topics.

That evening at a dinner meeting, Dr. Isaac Joslin Cox, Professor Emeritus of Northwestern University, spoke on "Pan-Americanism from Blaine through Roosevelt II". Also, a plaque commemorating the founding of Phi Alpha Theta, was presented to Alpha chapter by Dr. J. L. Glanville.

Omicron Delta Kappa was founded at Washington and Lee University on December 3, 1914, and now has fifty-two active circles. It is a member of the Association of College Honor Societies. Beta Beta Circle was organized at the University of Arkansas on June 2, 1939.

The purpose of ODK is to recognize and honor men who have attained all-round leadership in college and university life to the end that the most representative leaders in all phases of campus activities cooperate in worthwhile endeavor and join with faculty members on a basis of mutual interest and understanding.

Membership is awarded to junior and senior men on the basis of character and specified eligibility in the five major phases of campus life; namely, scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, publications, and speech, music, and dramatic arts. Faculty and alumni members are also chosen on the basis of character, distinguished attainments in college and community life, and consecration to democratic ideals.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Phi Beta Kappa is the pre-eminent honor society. For over a century and a half, election to Phi Beta Kappa has been a recognition of intellectual capacities well employed, especially in the acquiring of an education in the liberal arts and sciences. The purpose of the society is to recognize and encourage scholarship, friendship, and cultural interest.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded on December 5, 1776, at the College of William and Mary, in Williamsburg, Virginia. It was the first "Greek letter" society, and in its initial period at William and Mary it introduced the essential characteristics of such societies—an oath of secrecy, a badge, mottos in Greek and Latin, a code of laws, a seal, and a special hand clasp.

Early ideals of this fraternity may be summed up in the words of fraternity, morality, and literature. One of the principal purposes was the promotion of free discussion of questions of interest to members.

Three years after the founding of Phi Beta Kappa, chapters were organized at Harvard and Yale, and these two chapters have largely determined the course of the fraternity's development, both in its general character and in the establishment of new chapters.

The Alpha chapter of Arkansas was installed at the University on April 4, 1932. Prior to the installation, Skull and Torch had been the outstanding organization with regard to scholarship in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Membership is restricted to ten per cent of the candidates for the Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree in the College of Arts and Sciences. Candidates are chosen on the basis of outstanding character, attainments, and scholarship. A minimum grade average of 4.00 is prescribed, but in actual practice, elections rarely fall below 4.50.

Pi Kappa members realized the culmination of their dreams this year when they were finally admitted into the inner sanctum of do-something campus societies, the Honors Day council. After loudly knocking at the door of the unreceptive council for some time, entrance was granted on provision of good behavior and the remedy of a sagging grade point.

Although a majority of the old members did not quite make the grade as far as Honors Day requirements are concerned, they blithely ignored this slight discrepancy and strictly stuck to the rules in taking in some dozen new members at the Honors Day convocation, May 2.

The group was founded on this campus, aided and abetted by journalism profs W. J. "Uncle Walt" Lemke and Joseph "Smoky Joe" Thalheimer, to foster the advancement of interest in journalistic activities among women on the campus. The group was the sister organization of the since dead Men's Press Club, a highly-touted and exclusive group of men journalists who held meetings sporadically with rather spotty attendance and tried to decide on matters of great importance. Pi Kappa, in the meantime, confined its efforts to occasional smokerettes in the Traveler office, at which time some ardent member would supply a wastepaper basket full of popcorn for those members who had not learned the glories of nicotine. The activities of Pi Kappa diminished until during the war years, only two members, Jean Carroll and Eula Nell Edwards, graced the campus. They remedied the situation by taking in half a dozen new hopefuls.

Things picked up a bit this spring, however. Several old members returned to the campus, among them Reba Gray Wilcoxson, former RAZORBACK editor and Pi Kappa member who is currently teaching in the English department. With her help and that of other former members, the club started to function once again.

PI MU EPSILON

Girls, girls and more girls! Never before has the organization had a ratio of four girls to seven boys. All war-time precedents have been completely shattered.

Mathematicians have been meeting since May 4, 1931, on the University of Arkansas campus to delve into the problems of "log logs" and curvatures. Pi Mu Epsilon is a national mathematical fraternity begun at Syracuse University on May 25, 1914. The local chapter was welcomed into the fold because of its high scholastic standing, and was accepted by all of the other active chapters of Pi Mu Epsilon.

Its formal purpose is to promote high mathematical scholarship of the association, but activities of the group include the writing of humorous essays by pledges and biennial banquets. Spring found the Euclid followers dining to celebrate the initiation of new members.

Only four pointers are considered for membership in Pi Mu Epsilon. Other requirements are: a cumulative grade point of 3.00, and the completion of one semester of Calculus. Membership usually goes to those who are active in other honoraries and campus activities.

Phi Upsilon Omicron, the national, honorary, and professional home economics fraternity, ended this year with a membership of 19 home economics girls. These members, chosen from the upper two-fifths of their class, are outstanding leaders in their college, and must be interested in home economics as a profession.

They brought their professional project up to date by continuing the Big Sister plan of helping freshmen and transfers in adjusting to college life. The newsletter is published and sent to all alumnae and contains news of all new and former Phi U's. Another project was the alumnae file, which aided the fraternity in their effort to keep in contact with all the members.

This year, in building the program of Phi Upsilon, several luncheon meetings have been held, and combined with the business meeting. This has proved very successful and created much interest. In order to help financial matters, the girls have offered a catering service, which has served many entertainers and kept the girls in close cooperation with each other.

At Honors Day each year, Phi U offers to the most outstanding freshman girl in home economics a gold locket. This year the award went to Jean Chipman. Two initiations were held during the year, one in the fall and another in the spring. The latter was held when the fraternity was honored by a visit from the national councilor, Mrs. Ruth Kean, of Baton Rouge, Louisiana. This was the first visit from the councilor since the chapter was installed in 1943. Initiation services were held with a banquet following in honor of Mrs. Kean and the new initiates.

The purpose of Phi U is the advancement of Home Economics as a profession and in every day living. The official magazine published semi-annually is known as The Candle, and contains news of all chapters in other colleges.

PSI CHI

Psi Chi is a national honorary society in psychology founded September 4, 1929, during the Ninth International Congress of Psychology at New Haven, Connecticut. The purpose of this organization is primarily to advance the science of psychology; and secondly to encourage, stimulate, and maintain scholarship of the individual members in all academic fields, primarily in psychology.

There are at present thirty-eight chapters of Psi Chi. The University of Arkansas chapter of Pi Chi was founded in 1926. It became a charter chapter of Psi Chi in 1929 along with nineteen other chapters.

Meetings of Psi Chi are held once in every month of the school year. The meetings are of different types, such as dinner meetings on Sunday nights, dessert meetings on week nights, or informal gatherings on Sunday afternoon. The programs consist of reports given by students or faculty members on subjects of interest to those with an active interest in psychology. Discussion follows these reports. Questions of concern are brought up and discussed. Research papers and theses are summarized. The meetings give the students a chance to bring up ideas and questions which are much too complicated to spend time on in a classroom, but which are of vital interest to all with respect to psychology.

The requirements for membership are as follows: An associate member must be taking his ninth hour, or have completed his ninth hour in psychology; must have a minimum grade point average of a four point in psychology; must have a minimum accumulative grade point average of a three point in the remainder of his college courses. An active member must fulfill the same requirements as an associate member except the number of hours of psychology is twelve.

Any person who is able to meet these requirements will be welcomed into active or associate membership in Psi Chi.

If you should happen to wander past the Student Union some warm day when the windows are open and hear Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony" being wafted about by the breeze, you couldn't be blamed for wondering if the New York Symphony were upstairs practicing. It might easily be the New York Symphony, performing by record at the "musical coffee hour" which was begun last year by Sigma Alpha Iota. On Wednesday afternoon guests of the national music fraternity meet to enjoy their favorite masterpieces. On other days the room is open to all who are interested. Dr. Jordan is usually on hand to preside over a program consisting of scheduled and requested programs.

Members of Sigma Alpha Iota ushered for concerts during the year, including those of the Northwest Arkansas Symphony, directed by W. P. Hacker of the music faculty.

This year the University chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, Sigma Omicron, was hostess to the national vice-president, Miss Annelle Chandler of Tulsa, and the Zeta province president, Mrs. Cecil Hamilton of Oklahoma City. Sigma Omicron chapter is a member of Zeta province, which includes Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. At the Zeta province parley in Oklahoma City, February 8 and 9, Lillie Jean Trimble represented the local chapter.

Alumnae of Sigma Alpha Iota entertained the actives with a program on March 27 at the Kappa house. Miss Jo Anne Pels, pianist, and Miss Ruth Morris, bassoonist, performed. Both are members of the University of Arkansas music faculty.

A picnic for the actives and pledges, and initiation ended the activities of Sigma Alpha Iota for the year.

Entrance requirements for Sigma Alpha Iota demand that a girl have a major or minor in music with a minimum grade point of four. An honorary, the organization also recognizes successful professional women in the musical world. Among the notable honorary members are Gladys Swarthout, Lily Pons, Kirsten Flagstad, Myra Hess, Helen Jepson, Gertrude Stein, and Rose Bampton.

SOPHOMORE COUNCIL

The guiding purpose of Sophomore Council is to assist freshman women in adapting themselves to live a purposeful and wholesome life in their new environment at the University of Arkansas. During orientation week, at which time the campus appears to be in its embryonic period to freshman women, the members of Sophomore Council act as hostesses in acquainting them with the campus and introducing them to University students and faculty members.

After a complete list of new freshman women has been obtained from the Dean of Women's Office, the list is divided, and each council member is allotted a small group of freshman women, and acts as an advisor to them in the problems they want and need help in.

The activities and events of Sophomore Council of the past year have been devoted to the interests of new students. A hike, inviting all freshman girls and new transfer students to attend, was sponsored in the early fall. The beauty of Mother Nature combined with the rich fellowship between everyone who attended made it an event to remember. At the beginning of the Spring semester, Sophomore Council invited a large number of new students to a tea to become better acquainted with students and faculty members.

Sophomore Council is an honorary organization, and its members are chosen on the basis of leadership, scholarship, character, and participation in campus activities. The candidates for membership in this organization are tapped by Mortar Board, a sister organization. This past year, for the first time, the Sophomore Council candidates participated in a training program that consisted of instruction in the purpose of Sophomore Council, responsibility, campus activities, history of the University, and outstanding features.

Their interest and participation in this program served as a basis for the election of candidates to membership in Sophomore Council.

Awards for high scholarship are not limited to seniors. Freshmen, too, have an organization which upholds the attainment of high scholarship. It is, however, very exclusive, because to obtain membership, one must make a five point average for the first semester or a cumulative five point for the freshman year.

Phi Eta Sigma is a national honorary fraternity for freshmen. It was founded in 1923 at the University of Illinois. Its purpose is to encourage scholarship in freshmen. The Arkansas chapter was founded in 1931 by the late Dean Ripley, making the twenty-fourth chapter in the United States. Mr. A. S. Humphreys is now the sponsor of this organization.

Phi Eta Sigma is not a social fraternity, but it does have several meetings every semester. Among these are banquets held on the evening of the last Sunday of every month, and the annual fall meeting where the prospective members are entertained and have the requirements for entrance explained to them. To be one of these prospective members one must have made one of the higher grades on the psychological entrance exams. This, however, is not a requirement. The only requirement is that one make a grade average of five point or better. The annual initiation ceremony and banquet is held every spring.

Each year in order to help freshmen get off to a good start in their college life, Phi Eta Sigma distributes a booklet on how to study. This booklet, entitled Hints on How to Study, is published by the national organization and distributed to the various chapters.

BETA GAMMA SIGMA

Election to Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest scholastic honor that can be attained by a student in the College of Business Administration. The organization is called the Phi Beta Kappa of the Business School.

Beta Gamma Sigma is the only scholarship honor society in the field of Commerce and Business Administration that is recognized by the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business. It was founded in 1913.

The Alpha of Arkansas chapter was installed on the University of Arkansas campus in 1932 when the Business School became a four-year college and its honor students were no longer eligible to wear the Phi Beta Kappa key.

Members are elected each year from the upper ten per cent of the senior class. The student members this year are Doris Cook, Mildred Crenshaw, Nadine Foy, Betty Tracy, and Helen White.

Each year it is a custom of Beta Gamma Sigma to choose a prominent business man of the State to become an honorary member. This year P. F. Watzek, Vice-President and General Manager of the Crossett Lumber Company in Crossett, Arkansas, was elected to honorary membership.

One of the honorary members elected in the past, James H. Penick, President of W. B. Worthan and Company in Little Rock, was the speaker at Commerce Day this year.

ADA are the letters used to refer to Agri Day Association, an organization of all students in the College of Agriculture. The ultimate aim of the Association is to publicize Agri College both on the campus and throughout the state, and in doing so develop initiative, leadership, and a more friendly attitude among the students. The motto, "Let's make this a bigger and better Agri Day", has served to inspire many Agris during the life of the organization.

The last Friday in April has been set as the traditional date for Agri Day. All classes in the College of Agriculture are dismissed, and the day usually begins with a convocation held in the Student Union. This year's speaker was H. G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A and M. President Bennett is a native of Arkansas. The Wagon Wheel, which has served as a speakers' stand for the past three years, is fast becoming a part of Agri tradition. Dorothy Price, senior Home Ec major from Tamo, was crowned as the thirty-first Agri queen by Dean W. R. Horlacher. Dorothy has been very active in ADA and the Home Ec Club, has worked on the Agriculturist staff, and is a Phi U member.

Convocation was followed by a livestock show and picnic at the University farm. Students showed various prize livestock and poultry. Skits were presented by the faculty, Phi U, Alpha Zeta, AGR, 4-H, and the Home Ec Club.

To climax the day, the Agri formal—gingham dresses and overalls—was held in the Student Union ballroom.

Over six hundred invitations were sent out to former students and agricultural leaders throughout the state, and Agri Day has become a spring homecoming for former Home Ecs and Agris.

AGRI DAY ASSOCIATION

Other ADA social functions included the fall get-acquainted dance in the Union ballroom. Boys wore overalls and the girls gingham dresses. Just to start the ball rolling, the girls placed one of their shoes in the center of the room and each boy selected a partner by taking a shoe.

ADA also sponsors the Agriculturist, monthly publication edited by the students of the college. James Foreman has served as business manager for the past year, and Lugene Davenport, editor, has been elected to serve for another year. Mike Scroggins was elected business manager for the coming year.

Jack Keeling, this year's ADA manager, is a married veteran who has been very active in campus activities. Jack is a member of ODK, Alpha Zeta, and Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Rosemary Nicholson, Girls' 4-H Co-op, is assistant manager; Pauline Foley, Fayetteville, secretary; Mary Kennett, Davis Hall, treasurer; and Bob Cannon, publicity manager.

Each year the future farmers and their gals declare a holiday on Agri Day and paint white feet all over the campus, as a reminder to the rest of the campus, and especially to the Engineers, that Agriculture is here to stay. This special day was first called the "Harvest Festival", but in 1920 the name was changed.

The faculty members of the College of Agriculture are members of ADA, and are invited to all of its activities. At the ADA meetings, members of the faculty often address the students on various topics pertaining to Home Ec or Agriculture.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO

Alpha Gamma Rho was founded at the University of Illinois, April 4, 1908. Alpha Iota Chapter of Arkansas received its charter on April 29, 1934. It is the youngest chapter of the national organization.

Alpha Gamma Rho is an agricultural social fraternity, its purpose being "to make better men, and through them, broader and better agriculture by surrounding their members with influences tending to encourage individual endeavor, resourcefulness, and aggressive effort along the lines making for the development by better mental, social, and moral qualities; to promote a wider acquaintance and broader outlook on the part of agricultural men through fellowship in a national organization that stands for the best phases of development."

Alpha Gamma Rho is back on the University of Arkansas campus after three years of wartime inactivity. The chapter house was opened at the beginning of the second semester with eleven pre-war men back. Since then sixteen new men have been pledged, and the house is operating in full swing.

Social activities for the year were the annual spring formal on March 15. In the traditional AGR manner, numerous hayrides and picnics were highlights of the spring semester.

The American Institution of Chemical Engineers on the University of Arkansas campus is a student branch of the national organization of professional engineers. Upon graduation, members of the AIChE are automatically admitted to junior standing in the national society.

AIChE was brought to the University in 1935 by Dr. Harrison Hale. The requirements for membership in this group are very simple, being merely enrollment in the University as a chemical engineer. AIChE strives to bring its members in closer contact with the ideals, ambitions, and activities of other chemical engineers throughout the country.

Among the activities of the AIChE this year was the sponsoring of trips to various industries that would prove to be of interest to chemical engineers. They were cordially welcomed by the managers of these industries, who tried to give them pertinent information about their particular work and the opportunities for chemical engineers. Informal smokers were held at intervals throughout the year in the Student Union in order that the new and old chemical engineers on the campus might become better acquainted with one another and with the faculty advisors of AIChE. At these smokers students presented papers and talks on the different phases of chemical engineering in which each was specializing.

Several motion pictures of interest to chemical engineers were shown at the semi-monthly meetings. Talks were given and discussions led by several men outstanding in the technical field of chemical engineering. While he was on the campus in the fall, Dr. Stuart McLain talked to a meeting of AIChE about his work and experiences in chemical warfare while he was on military leave of absence from his position as Associate Professor of Chemistry.

Under the guidance of their faculty advisors, Dr Harrison Hale and Mr. Lawrence Hein, AIChE has given to its members very valuable services.

ASCE AIEE ASME

The University of Arkansas Chapters of these various engineering societies have again resumed their separate activities after having held their meetings jointly during the war years. During these years they combined their societies and met together, at which time they discussed the various phases of engineering in open discussion groups.

The ASCE is the oldest national engineering society of its kind in the United States. The purpose of the campus chapter is to bring the members together in one group and give them some experience of what is to be expected of them as engineers. Meetings of the local chapter are held seminar fashion every two weeks, and during the school year every member contributes at least one paper on some phase of civil engineering. Membership in the local chapter is a requirement for juniors and seniors who plan to receive degrees in civil engineering or structural architecture. The officers of this society are Frank Glasgow, president, and Robert Lee Woolfolk, secretary-treasurer.

The University chapter of the AIEE is intended to acquaint electrical engineering students with real life problems while giving them the benefits of associating with each other at their meetings. The meetings are held as a seminar where the students take the active part in reading papers and giving talks on electrical engineering topics. Officers are: Russell Newman, president; Jack Vineyard, vice-president; Austin Bollen, secretary; and W. B. Stelzner and A. S. Brown, faculty advisors.

The student branch of ASME is closely associated with the national organization of ASME, and both exist for the purpose of bringing a closer union and association between both student and practicing mechanical engineers. Meetings of the society are held seminar fashion, consisting of the reading of papers and the giving of talks by the students. All active members of ASME receive copies of a monthly magazine, The Mechanical Engineer.

The officers of the society are: Marshall Measel, president; Joe Bennett, vice-president; Cage Cross, secretary; and Ralph Burton, treasurer.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

Rapidly expanding organization on the U. of A. campus is the Baptist Student Union, connecting link between the college campus and the local Baptist Church. The organization has as its purpose the unifying of all the voluntary religious activities of Baptist students on the local campus and throughout the South. Members of the Union include all students who are members of the local Baptist Church or other unit organizations represented on the B. S. U. Council.

Nucleus of the local Union is the Executive Council which meets one afternoon each week to suggest and develop the activities of the entire group. This Executive Council is elected each spring by the Baptist Student Union. Once each month a Greater Council meeting is held to further promote the purposes of the Union. Members of the Greater B. S. U. Council include all officers of the unit organizations.

In addition to the local organization there is a state B. S. U. Council promoting annual conventions and retreats. The Southwide activities of B. S. U. include a Baptist Student Retreat at Ridgecrest, North Carolina, and a Quadrennial Convention. The U. of A. B. S. U. is chartering a bus to carry at least twenty students to Ridgecrest this June.

The activities of the Union are many and varied. In addition to the regular Sunday activities, the group sponsors Morning Watch in the Student Union Monday through Friday mornings from 7:40 to 7:50. Newest unit organization of the B. S. U. is the Life Service Band, composed of those students who have committed their lives to full time Christian service.

Spearheading the work of the B. S. U. at the U. of A. is Miss Mary Jane Redwine, student secretary, in the employment of the local Baptist Church.

Official publication of the Union is The Ambassador, published bi-weekly and distributed on Sunday mornings.

The University of Arkansas Band has been under the direction of three able leaders during the year. In the early fall Dr. Robert W. Winslow left them under the direction of R. W. Willis. M. S. Zahrt, director of the U. of A. Band in 1943-44, resumed the position at the beginning of the second semester.

Playing at all of the pep-rallies, football and basketball games, the band did much to boost school spirit. The only out-of-town trip made by the band this year was the Thanksgiving game in Tulsa, Oklahoma, where they played and paraded. In the late spring, the organization presented a concert on the campus, under the direction and supervision of Mr. Zahrt.

Many of the University Band members assisted the R.O.T.C. Band in Federal Inspections, while J. P. Crumpler, drum major, attracted much attention to the band by his novel and talented twirling.

Members not in the picture are: Atkins, Boyett, Lynch, Justiss, Johnson, Riddle, Alexander, Cross, Robinson, Tuck.

BLACKFRIARS

The University Blackfriars, a national dramatic fraternity, was organized at the University of Arkansas in 1913 by Roger Williams, who was at that time a member of the public speaking department of the University.

For a number of years it maintained a policy of small exclusive membership, but later developed into an organization supplementing the work of the University Theatre.

Blackfriars presented two plays this year. The first was a farce-comedy, "Nothing But the Truth", by James Montgomery. It was one of the riots of the year, with "Chuck" Freeman trying to tell the literal truth for twenty-four hours. Lee McKnight was "Chuck's" love and practically threw him overboard, not knowing that his brutal frankness was due to a bet. All the characters were wonderfully chosen and lived the play with the pep and spark that it deserved—and with James Foreman, as a bishop, stealing the show in his droll way.

Other members of the cast were: Frederick Campbell, Bill Bassett, Coleman Clark, Isabelle McNeill, Marie Parker, Patti Purl, and Jacque Dobbs.

Their second production was "Night Must Fall", a mystery with its share of shiver and lightened by comedy. Seymour Syna played the leading role of a bellboy who murders for a pastime. Leola Sharp was an old woman who made the audience despise her, and Carolyn Cherry, portraying the part of her niece, was a typical English girl.

Other members of the cast were: Mildred Crenshaw, John Mosely, Mary Stallings, Dell Simmons, Preston Magruder, and Clarence Parker.

Not only do members of Blackfriars get dramatic training and experience, but they are also trained as stage managers, prompters, property men, and learn scenery arrangements, and lighting.—All the things that add up to "The Show Must Go On!"—and with this theatrical troop the show does go on—with a BANG!!

With the addition of several new mounts, and a swimming pool at Hilltop, their popular meeting place, members of Boots and Spurs carried out an extensive program stressing recreation. Hilltop, the home of Mrs. Joy Pratt Markham, club sponsor, was the scene for countless rides, swimming parties, breakfasts, and weiner roasts.

Membership in Boots and Spurs, following tradition, was limited to those students possessing a genuine interest in horsemanship, plus the ability to ride well enough to meet the approval of the club sponsor and a majority of the members. This tradition was established in 1938 by a group of riding enthusiasts who organized Boots and Spurs to create interest and increase the skill of students in horseback riding.

prospective members rode on a tour of the campus. A second party followed October 21, also attended by old members and guests with music of the hill-billy type serving background for the weiner roast which followed. Rides were usually led by Co-presidents Mary V. Terry on her favorite mount, "Dick", and B. C. Dodson on "Major".

In addition to the officers, a group of representatives, one from each organized house, was appointed to look after the club's interests. That included collecting dues, helping schedule rides, encouraging riding students, and interesting other persons in riding. These representatives had an important part in building Boots and Spurs into the organization of its present strength.

Among the newly acquired horses were a three-year-old daughter of Happy Traveler, Victory Mary; Major, the aforementioned grey; and Early June Bug, the two-year-old palomino, son of Little Lady Bug. Outstanding riders are Mary Scurlock, Ester Shilling, Steele Hays, and Maurice Mitchell.

The club colors are Sky-blue and Scarlet, which typify their ideals and the energy to put those ideals into effect.

The Central Presbyterian University men's Bible class has been revived under the direction of Dr. Harrison Hale, who taught a combined men's and women's class for three long war years.

Enrollment equals that of the pre-war era, and the class is still using the "5-point" system to encourage steady attendance. This system requires a man to meet five successive classes to earn his five point rating. If he misses a Sunday, he has to begin all over again.

The girls who were crowded out of the class organized the University Women's Bible Class, which, under the leadership of Dr. Robert G. Mers and Mrs. Mers, has informal discussion meetings. One-year-old Allen Mers, who attends this class, but usually sleeps through it, counts one-half on the enrollment record.

In addition to the morning Sunday school classes, students have the University Westminster Fellowship group, which meets Sunday evenings in the social room to discuss current religious topics. Then they have an extension program—they go to smaller churches in the communities surrounding Fayetteville to help with young people's meetings and conduct the services.

A large number of students participate in the morning worship services and several sing in the choir.

The Central Presbyterian fellowship group, in a joint session with the First Presbyterians, had a dinner followed by a carolling party before the Christmas holidays. They observed Brotherhood Sunday by entertaining the Reverend W. M. Griffin, director of the Dwight Indian Training School at Vian, Oklahoma, and five Indian girls from the Dwight Mission High School.

The Presbyterian Church of the United States of America provides for the Bible class now being taught at the University by the Reverend J. P. McConnell.

CHI ALPHA

Although one of the youngest organizations on the campus, Chi Alpha is one of the most active. Founded in January, 1945, its purpose is to bring together women interested in chemistry, to discuss new scientific and industrial developments in this field, and to promote scholarship among women students. To be eligible for membership in Chi Alpha, a girl must be a sophomore, and must have been enrolled in the University of Arkansas at least one semester previous; she must have an accumulative grade point of 2.5 and must have the intention to major or minor in chemistry.

The twelve charter members of the organization, with Leona Jane Bledsoe as president, instituted an annual farewell banquet for the seniors in the Spring of 1945. The first sponsors for the group were Dr. Harrison Hale and Miss Zelpha Battey. In the fall of 1945, Cecilia Keith was elected president and Mrs. Peggy Parrish the new sponsor, to replace Miss Battey, who had left the University. Chi Alpha initiated ten girls in January of 1946, and following the ceremony held a banquet honoring seniors Cecilia Keith, Virginia Seward, and Leona Jane Bledsoe. The girls had several informal parties during the year, even borrowing the idea from the boys to have a "smoker".

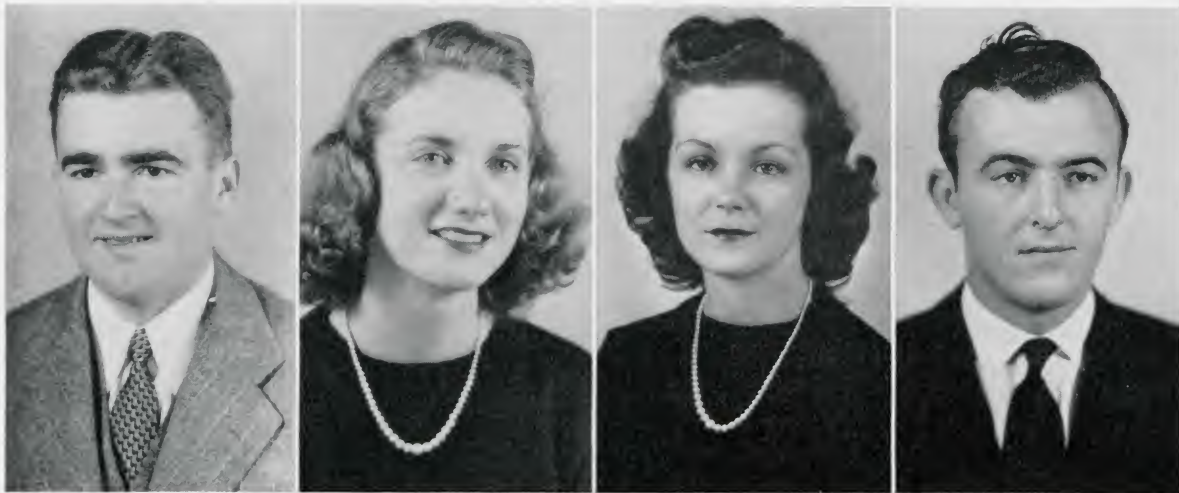

Chi Alpha meets twice monthly in the Chemistry Building, devoting one meeting to business and one to an educational program. Interesting picture shows have been sponsored as this educational feature, and the group has had guest speakers talk about different phases of chemistry.

COMMERCE GUILD

For the purpose of expressing and providing for the needs in the College of Business Administration, the faculty and students of the college organized the Commerce Guild on the campus nine years ago. The group was interested solely in giving publicity to the college, bringing speakers to the campus, and uniting more firmly the faculty and students. All commerce students are eligible for membership in the group.

Early this fall the commerce students adjourned to the Sig Alph valley for a picnic. The purpose of this picnic was to give the upper classmen an opportunity to become acquainted with the large number of freshman students.

The first "Commerce Day" was held in 1942, and this activity was the beginning of many more eventful days in the future years. A queen is elected to reign for the day by the vote of all students in the College of Business Administration. Porter Henslee, Chi Omega, was crowned queen of the Commerce School and reigned on Commerce Day, which was May 10. The entire student body participated in Commerce Day as classes were dismissed for that day. A convocation was held in the morning at which Mr. James H. Penick, business man from Little Rock, was the guest speaker. Mr. Penick has two sons in the business school, Jim and Ed. Following the convocation, a bar-B-Q was held at Lake Weddington with the annual baseball game between the faculty and the student body. Having a Commerce dance was resumed this year after being suspended last year. The queen was crowned at the dance.

This year was a record one for the Commerce Guild. The membership in it was larger than it has ever been in its entire history.

Faculty advisors for the Commerce Guild are Dr. George E. Hunsberger and Dr. Raymond Dein.

Management of the Commerce Guild is in the capable hands of the business students. An executive council, composed of four members from each class and the four Commerce Guild officers, governs the organization. This year the Guild was ably led by president Bill Evans, senior accounting student.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL

The Engineering Council is the Student Senate of the College of Engineering. Its purpose is the planning of activities for the Engineering College, and chief among these is the annual Engineer Day.

The thirteen-man council is composed of representatives from each engineering society, the Engineering representative to the Student Senate, members from the freshman and sophomore classes, and one delegate from the college at large.

The Engineers, who are naturally serious-minded fellows, forgot all slide rules when time came for their annual Engineers Day on March 15. This day is held in honor of their patron, St. Patrick. The celebration, which originated at the University of Missouri in 1903, came to the campus of the University of Arkansas in 1909. The Engineers have in their possession a piece from the original Blarney stone from the Blarney Castle in Cork County, Ireland. This was obtained in 1911 by Mike O'Malley, a graduate of the Engineering School.

This year the celebration began March 14, with a banquet at the Campus Grill, followed by a display of fireworks and a painting of the traditional Irish-green shamrocks on the campus. The next morning the Engineers ate breakfast at the Student Union. The next event was the annual convocation, at which senior Engineering students are dubbed Knights of St. Patrick and kiss the Blarney stone. Knights were: Vincent Drewery, Bob Price, A. L. Malone, Sam Atkinson, Russell Newman, and Benjamin White. Bill Russell was commended for having grown the most impressive beard. That afternoon the Engineers went to a movie, and that night held their dance in the ballroom of the Student Union. At this time Betty Alexander, Carnall Hall, was crowned St. Patricia, and Austin Bollen St. Patrick.

This year was the seventh year in which Coterie has been "the" social organization of outstanding independent women students on the campus.

The outstanding girls in the organization were lead this year by Sarah Aldridge, who was on Mortar Board and in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities". Carolyn Clark took Sarah's place as president when Sarah graduated at the end of the first semester.

Coterie's important social events this year included a hamburger fry, weiner roast and skating party, the sponsors' informal "get-togethers" for the girls, a spaghetti dinner at the president's home, a chicken dinner, and a spring formal.

Initiation for twelve new girls was held in December at the home of Mrs. Blevin. The new officers were installed at the installation banquet which was held in May at the Blue Mill.

This year Coterie got new pins which were proudly worn by all the members. The new pins consist of a star circumscribed by a C.

The membership in Coterie is limited to thirty girls. This strictly social group is made up of girls from the various independent houses and girls who live off the campus. The organization originally was for town girls only; but now, towns all over the state and even out of the state are represented.

Coterie holds regular rush parties during the year, and girls receiving invitations to join are pledged to the organization for a four-week period. During this term, the pledges are given assigned duties.

Regular meetings of Coterie are held once a week, on Monday afternoons at 5 p.m. in the Student Union.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

The Southern Presbyterian students attending the University are organized into two groups—the morning Sunday School Class and the evening Fellowship Supper group.

The aims of the Sunday School Class are to encourage serious Bible study, to strengthen individual devotional life, and to promote regular attendance of Southern Presbyterian students at the morning worship services of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Van Howell have taught the class for the past thirteen years, alternating each Sunday in presenting the lesson.

The Fellowship Supper group meets every Sunday at six o'clock. Supper is followed by a discussion led by one of the students. Subjects for discussion are chosen by the group at large, and therefore are of common interest. From time to time, an out-of-town speaker or faculty member is the guest of the group.

Through the Westminster Fellowship of Students, the members are actively engaged in Christian service. Student teachers assist the pastor, Reverend J. W. Butler, Jr., in holding an Outpost Sunday School at Harris. The students also have the privilege of helping Mr. Butler with Sunday services or worship for patients at the Veterans Hospital.

Real progress has been made toward the organization of a group for married students now attending the University.

The Westminster Fellowship of Students is actively cooperating in interdenomination Christian activities on the campus.

For the first time this year, a full-time student worker has been employed by the Synod to help with the organization and religious life of the Southern Presbyterian students at the University. Miss Lassie Youmans began this work with the opening of the fall semester.

GAMMA IOTA

On March 20, 1944, a small group of World War II veterans got together on the campus of the University of Arkansas "just to get acquainted". At this meeting these men and women who had seen service in every branch of the service decided to form a club called the "University of Arkansas Veterans Club". As more and more veterans returned to school and the membership became larger, it was decided to change the organization to some sort of a fraternal order.

The name Gamma Iota was chosen as symbolic of the famed "Government Issue" so familiar to servicemen.

Interest of ex-servicemen was aroused throughout the nation when a picture of the officers of this fraternity was published in an American Legion publication, the National Legionnaire. Inquiries were received from some twenty colleges. Immediately plans were made to make Gamma Iota a national fraternity for ex-servicemen.

October 17, 1944, Gamma Iota received a certificate of incorporation from the Circuit Court of Washington County, Arkansas.

The University of Arkansas chapter, Alpha chapter, has designed an appropriate key to be worn as the sign of membership by members of the organization.

Ex-soldiers, sailors, and marines turned out in full force to make the Gamma Iota sweater hop one of the most successful dances of the year.

The highlight of this year's activities came when Governor Ben Laney of Arkansas was initiated into Gamma Iota as an honorary member on December 17, 1945. Other honorary members are: Mary Ellen Randolph, who designed the key of Gamma Iota; Colonel B. P. Purdue; Luigi A. Passarelli, and L. W. Taylor.

Charter members of Gamma Iota are: Havis Barnes, Kenneth Beaton, William Collie, Jack Holt, Cecil Hutson, Edmond Marcum, Dennis Massey, Pete Oliver, Clarence Wilson, Jack Berry, Morris Vanderbilt, Jesse Warren, and Clarence Leonard.

Membership into Gamma Iota is open to both men and women. The only prerequisite for membership is an honorable discharge from any branch of the military service after September 16, 1940.

Gamma Delta, an association of Lutheran students, was organized on this campus November 15, 1945. Installation ceremonies were held with Reverend R. W. Hahn, Executive Secretary, present, and the chapter was christened Beta Beta.

An international organization, Gamma Delta has thirty-nine chapters in universities and colleges. The name embodies its aims and purposes; Gamma stands for Christian knowledge, and Delta for Christian faith. The specific objects of Gamma Delta are: to foster thorough study of the Bible; to disseminate the Scriptural philosophy of life; to train Lutheran students for Christian service in the Church and in the world; to encourage and maintain Lutheran fellowship; to maintain Lutheran consciousness; to establish fraternal relations with Lutheran students of other colleges and universities.

Beta Beta chapter met twice a month in the Blue Room of the Student Union, one meeting being for social purposes, the other for the study of the Bible. Among the social activities were included several picnics, "coke" parties, and banquets. As part of the rushing activities, a weiner roast was held March 20 for new second-semester students. Prospective members, formally pledged April 3, were: Grayson Kuehnert, Darrel B. Raymond, Edwina Kanis, Mr. and Mrs. David Piper, Kurt Bender, and Anna Jean Peterson. Formal initiation was held the end of May.

The official publication is the Spectator, a stimulating and informative bi-monthly.

As part of the national program, Beta Beta participated in the Memorial War Fund Drive, the purpose of which is to build a chapel on the University of Alabama campus honoring the Gamma Delta war dead.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The International Relations Club is a discussion group under the direction of Dr. Alexander, which considers problems of importance and interest concerning our problems and policies with the other nations of the world.

Affiliated with the national society, the International Relations Club was very active before the war and during its early years. Due to the decrease in enrollment the club was set aside in 1943 and was not reorganized until December of 1945. Membership in this club is open to all those interested in international affairs, no other requirements being necessary for entrance. The membership is increasing, and the club expects to be back up to pre-war attendance by next fall.

Various faculty members and other speakers are asked to lead the discussions at the meetings held twice each month. At one meeting the discussion was on trade barriers, past and present. Their economic implications and possible solutions to the problems they presented were dealt with. One of the most popular discussions held was the one of the Moscow Conference. Another was held on Breton Woods and the possible effects it might have. The meeting at which monetary disorders were discussed became rather involved, but was enjoyed by all those attending.

The International Relations Club receives its inspiration for discussions from the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace. This club holds forth as its purpose the training of future leading citizens so that they will have the habit of thinking clearly in connection with international problems. It is the college student of today who will be attending the Moscow Conferences and drawing up the monetary policies of tomorrow. Through the training received at the University, it is hoped that these future leaders will be capable and competent.

HOME EC CLUB

Every girl enrolled in Home Economics courses is eligible for membership in the Home Ec Club, which is the binding factor between the faculty and the students both socially and professionally. With the sponsor, Miss Helen Cannon, and various faculty guests, the Home Ec Club meets once each month in the living room of the Home Ec building.

A weiner roast in the early fall started the year off in the gay mood. In October talks given by Jean Chipman and Mildred Cash, winners of the Danforth Scholarship last year, inspired eligible members to try for these freshman and juniors honors which entitle them to a trip to the American Youth Foundation Camp, Camp Minnawana, on Lake Michigan.

The Agri-Home Ec informal get-together was in the club's social spotlight for the year. Folk dancing, ballroom dancing, bingo, and refreshments all were a part of a hilarious evening. Perhaps the chief reason for the success of the party was the fact that once more in Agri school there are enough boys to go around.

A vocational talk by Miss Marize Stein on "The Opportunities in the Field of Institutional Management" and a program of recorded music were a very interesting part of the year's program.

In May the new officers were installed at the annual installation banquet. Here a style show was given by members who were enrolled in the various clothing classes.

As a special project the Home Ec Club directed a grooming laboratory, which is located on the second floor of the Home Economics building. This is a room furnished with typical beauty shop equipment. Any girl on the campus could use this laboratory.

The Home Ec Club is affiliated with the college division of the American Home Economics Association, and through this affiliation members become acquainted with the professional aspects and requirements of a home economist.

Dr. Henderson and two member delegates attended the meeting of state club delegates in Conway. Two delegates and Miss Cannon attended a workshop in Little Rock of college delegates from five southern states. From these meetings the delegates and sponsors brought back valuable information and inspiration for furthering the activities of the club.

MIXED CHORUS

Another year has been successfully completed by Mixed Chorus, the largest organization on the campus. Under the direction of popular Harry Shultz, better known as "Pop", the chorus has grown steadily during the last ten years. It has now reached an all time high with 225 members.

Every Tuesday night is the time, with the ballroom of the Union the place for much chirping and warbling of the more musically inclined students of the University of Arkansas. Qualifications for Mixed Chorus are low enough to perhaps account in part for the large attendance. A minimum scholastic requirement of a passing grade in ten hours work is all that is necessary. No previous training is required, for "Pop" says that "anyone who wants to can learn to sing." This optimism of the director spreads into his chorus. Terrible croakings of the first few weeks develop into a lovely recital by the middle of the year. All agree that wonders have been worked by "Pop" Shultz.

Not only is Mixed Chorus an opportunity to discover hidden talent, but also, one hour's college credit is given for this weekly workout. It might be added that Tuesday night is an occasion for social calls, because "just everyone" is in the chorus. Flossie Stice has faithfully performed the duties of accompanist this entire year.

The Christmas recital was beautiful to view as well as to hear. It was all black and white, with girls wearing white formals and boys attired in dark suits. The program consisted entirely of Christmas selections. "Christmas Snows of Sweden" thrilled the audience. Many Christmas carols, which are ever favorites, were sung.

This year, with the returning of men to the campus, the bass section of the chorus was filled in. Sopranos and altos have not had to sing with such vigor, and the quality of the entire chorus has improved. With its ever-growing attendance, Mixed Chorus is one of the most active and prominent organizations on the University of Arkansas campus.

MET CLUB

OFFICERS

MARGARET McCLURG . . . President
NORMA ROGERS . . . Treasurer

One of the newest clubs on the University campus is the Met Club. This organization was first established in the fall of 1942 under the name of the Society Service Club, but was discontinued for two years and reorganized in 1944 under its present name, Met Club.

The name, Met, was given to the club in memory of one of the University's most outstanding students, Mary Elizabeth Phillips, Tri-Delta, who was known as "Met" by her friends.

Mary Elizabeth was a social welfare major and, since the club primarily deals with social welfare problems, Mrs. Mattie Maxted, the sponsor of the organization, suggested the name "Met". Miss Phillips, whose home was in Ashdown, Arkansas, was killed about three and one-half years ago in an automobile accident.

The club not only has discussions on social welfare work, but also on any other social problems which might confront society. The purpose of the club is to make students more interested and active in social welfare work.

At informal gatherings, such as dinners at Mrs. Maxted's home, the members of the club told about some of their interesting personal experiences in social welfare work.

Some of the club's work for the year consisted in giving programs to entertain the men at the Veterans Hospital, giving magazines to the hospital and county farm, attending a First-Aid class, helping as attendants at different clinics, such as the T.B., crippled children's, and eye infection. Also, the club writes a newsletter every six weeks and sends it to the former graduates of the social welfare department. This publication contains the activities of the club and news of former students in their social welfare work.

At present the club has forty-two members, and meetings are held once a month.

PRESS CLUB

Press Club, suspended during the war (since 1942), was revived this year, with women admitted. It was originally for men only, and the pressmen traditionally "drank beer, elected a Miss Arkansas Traveler, and had no money."

The club has discontinued the annual "Beer Bust", presumably because of the feminine element. But the other traditions are still being observed. An All-Journalism Banquet is held in the spring, at which Miss Arkansas Traveler presides.

Meeting every other week, the club members partake of programs and food. Programs this year have included Mrs. Roberta Fulbright, of the Northwest Arkansas Times; Pat Garner of radio station KFPW, Fort Smith; James Bohart, public relations counsellor of Little Rock; W. J. Lemke's speech on the Lindbergh kidnap case, and others.

Journalists organized the Press Club in 1924, with John F. Wells, now head of the Quapaw Printing Company of Little Rock, as president. Other presidents have been C. Armitage Harper, 1925; Arl V. Moore, 1926; Cecil Shuford, 1927, now Journalism prof at North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, Texas; James Anderson, 1928; Marvin Hurley, 1929, now assistant manager of the Houston, Texas, Chamber of Commerce; Burton Robbins, 1930; Jack Busick, 1931; Roy J. Forrest, 1932, now manager of the United Press, Detroit; Olen Marshall, 1933; Jack Young, 1934; Leland Leatherman, 1935; Paul Cunningham, 1936, now with the Cincinnati Post; Thornton Moore, 1937, now with Reporter-Dispatch, White Plains, N. Y.; Gene Farmer, 1938, now with Time and Life magazines, New York; Fayette Locke, 1939; Ellis Stafford, 1940; and William G. Brandon, now with the Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock.

The Press Club hopes to establish a Hall of Fame for Arkansas editors and publishers.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA

The Northwest Arkansas Symphony Orchestra was founded in July, 1944, with Mr. William Hacker conducting. The first season it gave a number of successful concerts in Arkansas, including a tour of the southern part of the state.

The orchestra held a summer workshop in July, 1945, for musicians who wanted to gain experience. Many musicians attended this workshop.

During the current year the orchestra, under the very able baton of Mr. Hacker, has given six concerts. The first was a warm-up concert played in October at St. Paul, Arkansas, in which only the members of the orchestra who attended the University played. On November 24, the full orchestra of about seventy musicians gave a concert at Fayetteville which was recorded for broadcasting. On November 25 they played the same program in Springdale and Eureka Springs. The Eureka Springs concert was reviewed very favorably in the Chicago Tribune of January 27 by a member of the staff who was in the town at that time.

On February 17 the orchestra gave concerts in Fayetteville and Eureka Springs which were both broadcast and recorded for future broadcasting.

The orchestra played a concert in Fayetteville March 7 and then headed for the southern part of the state for a three-day tour. Another concert was given in Fayetteville around the first of May.

The members of the orchestra are not all university students. There are four high school boys who played in it. The faculty is also represented. John Glasier, music instructor and composer of several works which the orchestra has performed, plays first violin. Mrs. Hacker plays the cello and is right-hand man to Mr. Hacker.

The orchestra is supported by the Symphony Societies of Fayetteville, Springdale, and Eureka Springs.

PAN-AMERICAN

The Pan-American League was organized for the purpose of creating a better feeling and understanding between the United States and Spanish-speaking countries.

President Charlene Reid called the meetings of the Pan-American League to order at 7:30 on the first Thursday night of each month. The meetings were held in the Blue Room of the Student Union.

Other officers who presided during the year were elected by the club at its first meeting. Vice-president was Joy Shoemaker; secretary, Charmaine Sure; treasurer, Catherine Williams; and sponsor, Professor O. W. McMillan.

A variety of programs were held throughout the year. The topics of the programs were any phase of Latin-American life, from their language to their music.

Dr. Herminio Lunardelli, receiver of a Brazilian fellowship to the University of Arkansas, spoke to the club earlier in the year on Pan-American relations.

Mrs. Ruth Short, a University student who has lived in Panama for twenty years, offered an interesting talk on Panama and its native life. She led a group discussion later in the evening.

A Christmas party was given before the holidays in the typical Spanish style, using their Christmas games and songs. The breaking of the pinatas was the feature of the evening.

Several programs of Latin-American music were held. On some programs Latin-American musical records were used and on others the members sang in Spanish.

Programs in which nothing but Spanish was spoken were used alternately throughout the year with the other programs.

Experiences in Mexico were also told by Tri-Deltas Charlene Reid and Dojelo Crabaugh, who spent the summer at the University of Mexico.

The College of Agriculture Married Students Club was organized during the school year, 1940-41, by Orville J. Hall, Associate Professor of Rural Economics and Sociology, but was suspended during the war. When Mr. Hall returned from military duties in the fall of 1945, the Club was revived and has a membership of 114 who are enrolled in the College and 114 wives or husbands of agricultural students.

This club affords an opportunity for married students in the College of Agriculture to meet both for recreational purposes and for group study of problems of mutual interest.

In order to assist members who are parents to attend the meetings, the club arranged for a nursery where the children are cared for while the fathers and mothers participate in club activities.

NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club was founded at the University of Pennsylvania by two men students who deeply felt the need of an organization for Catholic men and women on that campus. It was brought to the University of Arkansas in 1937 and now has a definite place in the lives of the majority of the Catholic student body.

Twice monthly the Newman Club meets in the basement of the Catholic Church in Fayetteville to discuss prominent problems concerning, among other things, everyday Christian living. These discussions cover a very wide range of topics, covering anything of religious interest that the members may be thinking about at the time. Once each month a breakfast meeting is held in the Church. Occasional suppers are held in order that Newman Club members may become better acquainted with one another on a more informal basis.

The Newman Club strives to build better citizens and better Christians. Its motto is "Cor ad cor lo quitur", meaning "Heart speaks to heart". The ideals and principles of the famous Cardinal, an acknowledged leader of the 19th century Roman Catholic Church for whom the club is named, are always kept before the members in order that they may work for the betterment of the entire society.

Among the women of the local parish who are extremely helpful in leading and cooperating with the Newman Club are Mrs. Hembree and Mrs. Coffey. They furnish the necessary contact with the townspeople that makes for more efficient working of the club and the activities it has planned.

The Pre-Med Club, which began this school year with a much more staple enrollment than it had last year, was quite active during the year.

With many veterans and students returning this year, the number of members in the club has really soared.

The Club met for the first time November 1, to organize and select the new slate of officers which were to lead them through both semesters.

Irvin A. Rothrock, PiKA, was elected president of the group and held the gavel for the year. Charlene Majors Springgate was chosen vice-president of the club. Jack P. Smith kept the records and served as treasurer. Program chairman, C. Edward Gossett, planned the discussions, lectures, and movies which the club enjoyed at its meetings, while Sidney Neel served as publicity chairman and reporter.

The purpose of the club is to keep the newest medical discoveries and developments before the students, with a thought toward study, discussions, and research.

All pre-med students are eligible for membership. Faculty from the chemistry and zoology departments received honorary membership.

Dr. S. C. Dellinger, professor of zoology and curator of the museum, acted as faculty sponsor of the group.

Several interesting programs were held throughout the year. Dr. Frank Gordon, head of the Veterans Facilities at the Veterans' Hospital, was in charge of the program one night. He discussed the new sulfa drugs and penicillin, and their work in aiding medical work during the war and their role in post-war medicine. A group round-table discussion was held by Dr. Gordon after his talk.

Parties, too, were held. A Christmas party was held before the holidays. Games were played using zoological terms and chemical formulas as answers. Refreshments were served after the party.

ROOTIN' RUBES

Rootin' Rubes, girls' pep organization corresponding to men's ABC, has spent another year arousing enthusiasm and school spirit among the girls' organized houses.

The Rootin' Rubes, clad in their red and white uniforms, were seated in a body at all football and basketball games, saw football players off in the early hours of morning, and greeted them upon their return from out-of-town games.

At the half of the football games, Rootin' Rubes formed a line through which the players ran back onto the field, cheered on by the "red 'n' white" gals.

Through Rootin' Rubes, all football queens and maids for Homecoming, Arkansas-Texas game, and Tulsa game are chosen. Decked in their slickest formals, the girls put on a "stock show" for the eager Razorbacks, parading up and down while the boys make their selections.

The queens who were chosen this year are Homecoming Queen, Joy Lee Kirkpatrick, Pi Beta Phi; Miss Texas A & M, Jane Adams, Tri-Delta; Miss Arkansas at the Arkansas-Texas game, Shara Collie, Tri-Delta; Miss Texas at the Arkansas-Texas game, Becky Luke, Delta Gamma.

At Homecoming, Rootin' Rube members talked up the festivities at the girls' houses, encouraging the building of floats and decorations.

Membership of Rootin' Rubes is chosen by the individual girls' houses, each of which is allotted a definite number. Carnall Hall is allowed ten; Chi Omega, Pi Phi, Delta Gamma, Tri-Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Davis Hall are allowed seven; U-Ark, Oakland, and 4-H House are allowed five.

Considered the best project of the group is the presentation of football blankets to the senior lettermen. Until this year certificates have been awarded because of the wool shortage.

Wesley Players, sponsored by the Methodist Church, has a membership which includes all college students who are interested in studying, acting, and producing religious dramas.

Realizing that it is a far cry back to the days when the sole purpose of plays was for religion, Wesley Players nevertheless stress the importance of the sacred dramas of today in an attempt to revive interest in the religious drama.

The group holds as its aim "promoting an interest for the advancement of religious drama". This interest is developed at their bi-monthly meetings, which are held in the Blue Room of the Student Union the first and third Mondays of each month.

Studies in some phases of drama are given at each meeting by various members of the organization, and plays are given several times a year.

This year the group produced three plays. One was presented at Christmas, one at Easter, and one at a church conference at Jonesboro in the spring.

The national organization of Wesley Players was founded in 1924 by a group of Methodist students on the University of Illinois campus. Kappa chapter was established on the Arkansas campus in 1931, being the first chapter installed in the south.

Membership is limited to fifty students, and members are required to have some talent, for they must take part in the plays themselves, or in the production of them. Students must have at least a two-point grade average and work a certain number of hours before becoming full-fledged members. After helping to present at least one play during the year, a pledge may be made a member by the unanimous vote of the members.

WESLEY FOUNDATION

Wesley Foundation was organized for the purpose of making University students feel that they have "a home away from home", namely the University Church.

Its aim is the promotion of fellowship and understanding among Methodists. All activities stress this fellowship and try to make the students more united, providing devotional and recreational opportunities for college students.

Sunday morning services are held in Wesley Hall, and the program is well rounded to fit each individual's interest and needs. Both practical Christianity and the international Sunday School lessons are taught, giving students a choice to attend either.

Active games and folk games are played, followed by the "dine-a-bit" hour, which is really "eat-a-bit". Then they sing for their supper, usually harmonizing on well-known folk songs. After this comes the serious part of the program—discussion of campus problems, student lead worship, a play given by the Wesley Players, or talks given by professional men on vocations.

Each month Wesley Foundation gives a party for the members and friends. This year the group gave a get-acquainted hike to Ghost Hollow, a skating party, Christmas party, and a kid party the first semester. In the spring a Valentine party was given to get acquainted with the nine hundred twenty-five Methodists on the campus.

Mrs. J. E. Harris is the director of Wesley Foundation this year, and the Reverend Paul Galloway acts as counsellor. Wesley Foundation fulfilled both its aim and purpose this year.

The Young Men's Christian Association, a world-wide organization, was brought to the University of Arkansas campus in 1887 and has been under the able direction of Mr. W. S. Gregson for the past twenty-nine years. After its establishment on this campus, YMCA quickly became one of the most active organizations and has continued as such ever since.

The majority of the work done by the YMCA is in cooperation with its sister organization, the Young Women's Christian Association, and under the direction of the recently organized Campus Christian Council. The main purpose of the YMCA is to promote religious interest and friendship among the students of the University. This is done by presenting to them ideas about how to apply religious teachings to their ordinary life as students and later as working citizens so that they may strive to make our country more democratic and more Christian.

During Registration Week a survey of the church preference of all students was conducted by the YMCA, the completed lists being turned over to the local ministers for their use in contacting the members of their respective faiths. Also in September, the YMCA sponsored a reception for new students on the campus. Because of the unusually great increase in enrollment at the beginning of the second semester, another reception was held in February. These receptions help bridge the gap that is often found between new students before they become acquainted with one another and help them become better adjusted to their life at the University.

Y M C A

The YMCA also cooperated by furnishing committee members and other workers for the Religious Emphasis Week, which was a major production of the year for all religious organizations on the campus. Through Religious Emphasis Week the students of the University were urged to apply basic religious ideals and principles to all their activities. This program was sponsored by the University, the Fayetteville Ministerial Alliance, and the University Christian Council of the Federated Council of Churches. Features of the Religious Emphasis Week were various seminars conducted each afternoon, roundtables, question and answer sessions, and two all-student convocations. The opening convocation was addressed by Dr. John Thomas, who spoke on the "Atomic Ultimatum", and the closing assembly was addressed by Dr. A. Gilkey, who spoke on our "Pet Flower Civilization".

The president of the Young Men's Christian Association this year is James Foreman. He has been instrumental in suggesting and planning many of their activities. The YMCA is one of the most efficiently organized clubs on any campus and has produced many outstanding state and national leaders. Through its program of informal meetings, discussions, and parties, the YMCA continues to make available to students recreation and the opportunity for forming constructive religious theories and ideas.

Always an active organization, YWCA, under the leadership of Dorothy Bumpers, boasted a year of real accomplishments. Its activities being directed by the YWCA cabinet, the group has representatives from each girls' organization on the campus governing it. Positions on the cabinet are filled by appointment, while officers are elected by vote of the members. The cabinet meets monthly to plan the programs, lectures, and meetings.

Activities got off to a successful start with the membership drive September 21-28 netting nearly four hundred dollars. Initiation for new members, where they were introduced to the purposes and ideals of the "Y", was held October 3 in the ballroom of the Student Union. Receptions for all new women students were held both semesters, the first being September 15, the latter January 28.

An important part of the organization's activities are the guest speakers who appear before mass convocations and meet with the cabinet. The first of these was Miss Elizabeth Ledeen, volunteer worker of YWCA, who worked with the cabinet in an advisory capacity from October 22-25. She was followed by Edmund Wellenstein, a speaker from Holland, the first of November. Plans for the two major activities of the year were developed with the visit of Dr. Maxfield Garrot, traveling secretary for the Student Volunteer Movement. He met with the cabinet November 26.

The World Student Service Fund Drive, co-sponsored with YMCA and a council of presidents of each organization on the campus, was held December 12-14. Further plans were made, setting the goal for $1,000 with the visit of Dr. Winburn Thomas, who met with the committee November 25.

The purpose of the World Student Service Fund is to provide direct relief, rehabilitation, and reconstruction for students and professors in war-torn countries around the world. It is student-to-student aid on an international, inter-racial, non-sectarian, and non-political basis. Betty Tracy was in charge of the drive.

Y W C A

In connection with the Student Christian Service program, Professor James Course, who taught in the Imperial University for thirteen years, addressed a mass convocation December 13.

The other most important project of the year was that of Religious Emphasis Week. Seven leaders in religious and service organizations appeared in forums and addresses during the week from February 10-15. Dean Henry Kronenberg of the College of Education served as general chairman, assisted by Miss Jewell Alcorn. Speakers who took part in the program were: Dr. John B. Thompson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Norman, Oklahoma; Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel, Chicago, Illinois; Mrs. Gilkey, prominent in YWCA work; the Reverend Stanley Martin, director of the week, professor and director of religious activities at Boston University, Boston, Massachusetts; Miss Elizabeth Turner, traveling secretary, Student Volunteer Movement, and former missionary to China; Dr. Umhau Wolf, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Toledo, Ohio, formerly chaplain; and George B. Workman, secretary of the Southwest Conference of the Student Christian Associations.

The objectives of the week were: to present the Christian faith, to transplant the faith into personal living, and to relate the faith to social living.

In March, Mary Ross McFadden was sent as delegate to the national convention held in Atlantic City, New Jersey, from the second to the eighth.

A freshman cabinet for YWCA was formed for the first time, having as its members: Peggy Jacobs, George Anna Hurst, Betsy Nance, Mary Scurlock, and Ray Ash. Dorothy Bartlett, Phyllis Forsman, and Jo Nobles acted as advisors, the purpose being to make it a training group for future "senior" cabinet positions.

Sister organization of the Young Men's Christian Association, the YWCA was founded in England during the period of the Industrial Revolution in the form of a girls' boarding house for factory workers. It spread to this country in 1905, and became known as the Young Women's Christian Association of the United States.

Second row: Hill, Hurst, Jacobs, Kent.

Far from the land where their foot - steps have trod.

The first system of the musical score consists of a vocal line on a single treble clef staff and a piano accompaniment on two staves (treble and bass clef). The vocal line begins with a half note 'F' (Far), followed by a quarter note 'r' (from), a quarter note 't' (the), a quarter note 'l' (land), a quarter note 'w' (where), a quarter note 't' (their), a quarter note 'f' (foot), a quarter note 's' (steps), a quarter note 'h' (have), and a half note 't' (trod). The piano accompaniment features a steady eighth-note bass line and chords in the right hand.

Bea - con of hope in the ways drear - y light - ed

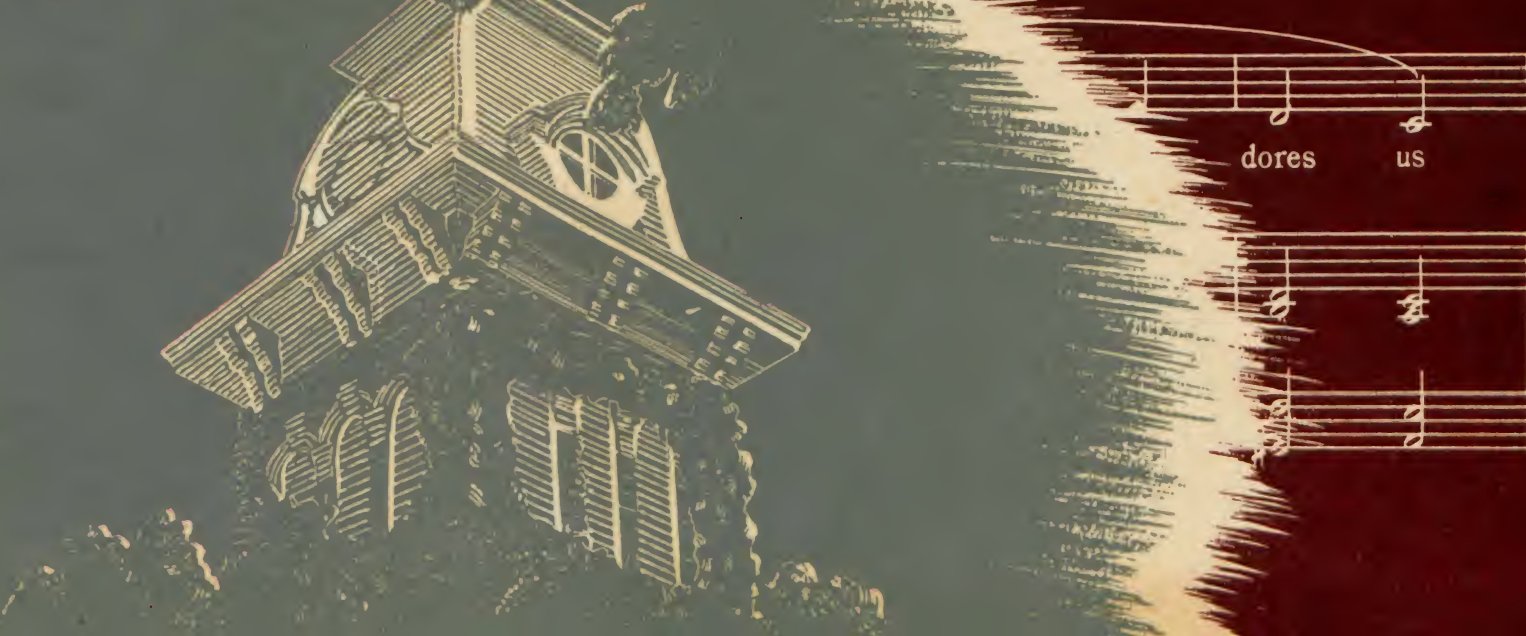

The second system continues the musical score. The vocal line has a half note 'B' (Bea), a half note 'c' (con), a quarter note 'o' (of), a quarter note 'h' (hope), a quarter note 'i' (in), a quarter note 't' (the), a quarter note 'w' (ways), a quarter note 'd' (drear), a quarter note 'y' (y), a quarter note 'l' (light), and a half note 'e' (ed). The piano accompaniment includes a dynamic marking of f (forte) at the beginning.

Pride of our hearts that are loy - al and true From

The third system of the musical score shows the vocal line with a half note 'P' (Pride), a half note 'o' (of), a quarter note 'o' (our), a quarter note 'h' (hearts), a quarter note 't' (that), a quarter note 'a' (are), a quarter note 'l' (loy), a quarter note 'a' (al), a quarter note 'a' (and), a quarter note 't' (true), and a half note 'F' (From). The piano accompaniment has a dynamic marking of mf (mezzo-forte).

dores us

The fourth system shows the vocal line with a half note 'd' (dores) and a half note 'u' (us). The piano accompaniment continues. In the bottom left corner, there is a detailed illustration of a two-story house with a chimney, surrounded by trees and a path.
